Aldermanic Committee Clears Police on Shifts; Hears Offer To Name 20 Told To Go Easy

RALPH

McGILL

The President And Edgar

"Edgar," said the President, smiling broadly, "has been criticizing me since I was 5 years old." This was a human-interest, goodwill jackpot for younger brother Dwight D. Eisenhower, who just replied to a question asking if he had seen Edgar Eisenhower's criticism of the budget.

Every man who, as a boy, experienced the tyranny of a slightly older brother, warmed toward the President as memory brought back boyhood.

Worst of these boyhood critics and tormentors is the brother who is about two years older . . . as Edgar Eisenhower is one year and nine months older than Dwight D. Eisenhower.

When the older brother is 7, he can read and write. What is more, he calculatingly makes little brother aware of this superiority.

A 7-year-old can go places by himself. The baby, of 5, is kept at home. Big brother laughs at him.

At 7 a boy is in school. He is an important figure. He comes home talking of teachers, games played, and new boys. Five-year-old brother feels lost and neglected. At 5 and 7, the gulf between brothers is greater than at any other time. A 6-year-old can sometimes handle big brother of 8. But 5—that's still a baby age.

'Little Ike'

According to the memoirs of Abilene, the two were "Big Ike" and "Little Ike." And "Little Ike," of course, was Dwight.

Because of the nearness of their ages the competitive spirit was keen between them, as it is with all such brothers.

According to the stories remembered about the Eisenhowers, "Big Ike" and "Little Ike" were always wrestling, tussling, competing.

The bond was close . . . but "Big Ike" has always been quick with the needling word or phrase.

Edgar became a better golfer . . . and never lets "Little Ike" forget it.

At the opening game of the baseball season, when "Little Ike" threw out the first ball to open the season between Washington and Baltimore, he rooted for the Senators. "Big Ike" was there, as his brother's guest. He cheered the Orioles.

Edgar Eisenhower was in the news in 1951. He wrote his brother a letter suggesting he not seek the nomination for the presidency. He told the folks around Tacoma, where he is a wealthy, successful corporation lawyer, he didn't think Dwight should run.

In February, 1956, when everyone else was wondering whether "Little Ike" would run or not, Edgar hinted out loud he was pretty sure his young brother would offer for renomination. The stock market shot up with the news. Everyone figured "Big Ike" knew.

In Seattle

In the fall campaign the President left Seattle after a speech there and went to spend the night at his brother's home near Tacoma. The next day "Big Ike" introduced his brother in a dry, friendly way, when he spoke at a college rally.

The Democrats won the big race in the state — Warren G. Magnuson defeating former Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, whom the President personally endorsed and whom "Big Ike," too, supported.

Around Tacoma, where Brother Ed is popular and well known, he is known as a man sometimes wrong but never in doubt, and as one stubborn and difficult to convince. But, they say, that beneath his shell he is a person of warmth and sentiment.

His hobby is golf. The story is "Little Ike" has never defeated "Big Ike." The latter has four times won the Washington state title for senior players.

In politics Brother Edgar was, and is, a severe conservative. He was a strong opponent of the New Deal and most probably thinks we should go back to 1890.

The nearness of their ages made the two boys companions and competitors. And if "Little Ike" went on to attain a world reputation, while "Big Ike" was winning a statewide name in law, the latter can still beat little brother at golf.

There was some of the old memories of boyhood stirring the President when he smiled and said, "Edgar has been criticizing me since I was 5."

And it was a public relations bull's-eye.

Humphrey Joins Ike For Easter

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Correspondent

AUGUSTA, April 19—President Eisenhower worked, fished and played golf today and then welcomed his top financial adviser, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, to Augusta for a quiet Easter weekend.

Far removed from the Washington hub-bub over the federal budget, Eisenhower and Humphrey may well discuss government finances, but the secretary's visit was tagged as merely a social one.

Mrs. Eisenhower went to Bush Field municipal airport to greet Secretary and Mrs. Humphrey, who arrived late in the afternoon aboard the presidential plane, the Columbine III, from Washington.

The First Lady then escorted the Humphreys to the White House vacation retreat at "Mamie's Cabin" on the Augusta National Golf Course. The Humphreys were hosts to the Eisen-

Pardons Board Saves Grier From Death in Electric Chair

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles unanimously voted Friday to commute the death sentence of Hoke Grier, 56-year-old Hall County farmer.

Grier and his son Fletcher were both convicted of the murder of a relative, Wiley Grier Jr., in 1955. Fletcher Grier was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Board members Mrs. Rebecca L. Garrett and W. H. Kimbrough, and Chm. Hugh Carney in a statement said the record shows Fletcher Grier "was the more aggressive and probably fired the fatal shot. . . . It would be unconscionable to allow more extreme punishment for the one who apparently did not discharge the lethal bullets."

The board also cited a long-standing family feud. "The uncontradicted evidence . . . shows that the deceased on several occasions was cruel to the defendant or members of his family and on one occasion . . . attempted to strike and run over the defendant with an automobile," the statement said.

Red-Leased British Ship Sails Suez

CAIRO, April 19 (UP) — A British freighter under charter to a Chinese Communist firm but flying the Union Jack sailed into the Suez Canal today. It was the first British vessel to use the waterway since it was closed last November.

An American passenger liner, the President Jackson, was scheduled to enter the waterway next Wednesday to become the first American vessel to use it under Egypt's new terms.

The 1,200-ton British freighter West Breeze, carrying a cargo of peanuts, paid its toll to the Egyptian Canal Authorities in Port Suez in French francs and steamed toward the Mediterranean terminus at Port Said in convoy with seven other vessels.

PAY UNDER PROTEST

(In New York, a spokesman for the American President Lines said the President Jackson, en route to Genoa, Italy, from New York, would pay tolls to Egypt "under protest" in accordance with U.S. government policy).

Another British freighter, the 7,127-ton Poplar Hill, was expected to transit the canal tomorrow from Suez, the Red Sea port of entry.

Cairo newspapers said French ships also were preparing to use the waterway as a "practical necessity."

GOING TO ROTTERDAM

(In London, the British government, which opposes Egypt's terms for operating the canal, said the West Breeze was on charter to the Far Eastern Enterprise Co. The firm operates for the Chinese Communists. The West Breeze is en route to Rotterdam from the Far East).

More and more vessels were using the canal now that the United Nations had cleared it of the wrecks sunk by Egypt during the Anglo-French invasion last November.

$100 Million Aid Offered to Poles

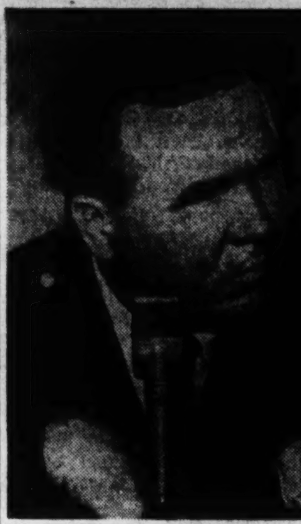

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The United States was reported today to have boosted to $100 million the amount of aid being offered to Poland.

No final decision has been made by Secretary of State Dulles. But negotiators are hopeful they can agree by May 10.

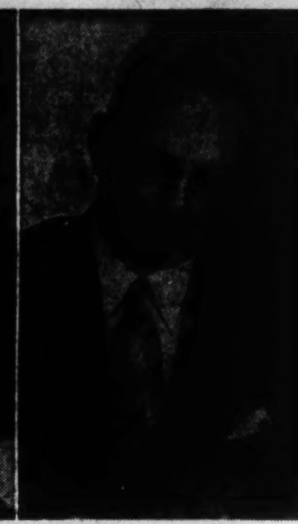

The U.S. plan for providing this money was said to be:

1. Twenty-five to $30 million in a cash loan from President Eisenhower's emergency foreign aid fund. These dollars would go to buy farm machinery and coal-mining equipment primarily.

2. The rest, $70 to $75 million, in surplus farm goods.

Solicitor Aide's Story Is Assailed by Mayor

By JACK NELSON

The aldermanic police committee Friday found no irregularities in the beat transferal or resignation of Patrolman Ronnie M. Clark.

Shortly before the committee went into executive session to arrive at its decision, a Fulton Criminal Court official declared he could name 20 policemen who say they were ordered not to police "certain places."

Hinson McAuliffe, assistant solicitor, dropped that explosive testimony and Mayor Hartsfield, a member of the committee, reacted with anger. He demanded that McAuliffe name the policemen. McAuliffe refused.

20-MINUTE STUDY

After deliberating 20 minutes to act on testimony given at a stormy 7½-hour hearing, the committee, in a resolution to be submitted to the full aldermanic board, found that Clark was transferred "without reference to a request from any source outside the Police Department and that there were no findings of irregularities in the circumstances surrounding the resignation of Officer Clark."

Ald. Douglas Wood, who offered the resolution which called for the police committee's hearing, issued the following statement after the committee's decision was revealed:

"From the information that came out at the hearing today, it would seem to me that former officer Clark was devoted to his duty and was a good police officer intent upon enforcing the law and it is regrettable that the city of Atlanta has lost his services.

ASKS FURTHER PROBE

"I also feel that we should make a further investigation regarding the operation of the lottery racket in the city because information that came out at the hearing shows that it has been rather widespread in its operation."

Wood said he feels further investigation should be made by the police committee and the chief of police.

The committee adopted a second resolution calling upon McAuliffe and Sol. Kelley to turn over names of the 20 police officers and the location of the "certain places" to the Fulton grand jury and the police committee.

When McAuliffe first brought up the testimony about the policemen, he said he would name

Jury Hears Woman in Bug Probe

The Fulton Grand Jury continued Friday its probe of alleged police-protected lottery in Atlanta.

Mrs. Bessie O'Quinn, who has more than 17 years service on the Atlanta police force, spent more than an hour with the grand jury.

Jury Foreman Felix Cooper gave his usual "no comment" to reporters when asked about the day's session.

It was understood, however, that Mrs. O'Quinn was questioned about any information she could give on reports of bribing of police officers.

The grand jury also devoted about an hour of its session to questioning J. W. Shipp, an auditor for the firm of Respess and Respess, in connection with alleged irregularities in Fulton Civil Court marshal's sales.

Sun To Shine For Easter Parade Here

If the Easter bunny hurries, he probably won't get wet while making his egg-hiding rounds Sunday morning in Atlanta.

That's the word from the Atlanta Weather Bureau, which foresaw little chance of rain dampening the spirits of Atlanta churchgoers Easter morning.

It tempered this dry appraisal of the weekend with the warning that there is a possibility of widely scattered thundershowers Saturday and Sunday.

Forecaster B. L. Seward said the mercury bobbed up to the 80-mark for the first time this year in Atlanta Friday. Extremes were 80 and 63.

Saturday's extremes are pegged at 82 and 62, Sunday's at 82 and 64.

DeKalb Jury To Study $25,000 Fund Shortage

By HAROLD RHODEN

The DeKalb County Grand Jury will be asked to examine a special audit of the sewer department in which a discrepancy of more than $25,000 was revealed.

Paul S. Brecht, former office manager for the sewer department, was given a "vacation" Feb. 4 when the first discrepancy was found, commission chairman Claud H. Blount said.

A supplementary report, to be completed when additional accounts are in, may push the total of the missing funds even higher, auditor Wilbur F. Tabor said.

REPEATED SHORTAGES

The county, due to cancelling of a fidelity bond for Brecht, may lose the $7,738.74 missing during the period from April 16, 1955 to Dec. 31 of that year when no bond coverage for him can be found, the audit said.

Brecht was in charge of collecting paving, sewerage and curbing assessment fees from property owners and subdivision developers who requested the services.

According to the audit, a total of $9,938.42 was taken from Jan. 1, 1952 to April 16, 1955. In the period from April 16, 1955, until Dec. 31 of that year, $7,738.74 is missing, the audit related. An additional $7,745.55 is missing from Jan. 1, 1956 until Feb. 1, 1957, the audit said.

Tabor said one of the discrepancies was discovered during a check on two collection boxes under Brecht's supervision. One of the boxes was short $108 at the time of the audit, the other box balanced. Several days later the situation had reversed itself, the auditor said.

Another discrepancy in the department was discovered last year during the audit, Tabor said. He reported the matter to former Commissioner Wheat Williams and Comptroller M. O. Sams who said he would help Brecht straighten the books out, Tabor related.

EMPLOYED SINCE '49

Tabor explained the money was taken by holding the cash payments received until a check was received in the amount of the cash. Then the receipt would be given for the cash and the check then cashed.

According to the audit, Brecht was not covered by a performance bond from April 16, 1955 until Jan. 1, 1956. If this is the case, the county will lose that money not covered by a bonding company, the auditor said.

It amounts to some $7,738.74.

Brecht began working with the county Oct. 1, 1949.

Russia Travel Curbs

MOSCOW, April 19 (AP)—The Soviet Union has relaxed somewhat restrictions placed recently on the travels of diplomats outside Moscow, but the British were still unable to get travel permits for the Crimea and Canadians were barred from going to Tiflis.

Jordan Guards Bar 3 Russian Nuns From Jerusalem on Good Friday

JERUSALEM, Israel, April 19 (UP)—Jordanian border officials today abruptly turned back three Russian nuns who tried to cross from Israel into the old city of Jerusalem on a Good Friday pilgrimage.

The incident was attributed to the Middle East tension that reduced the number of Holy Land pilgrims to a mere trickle.

Fewer than 400 persons today made the traditional pilgrimage through the Mandelbaum Gate here to the Jordanian-held old section of Jerusalem to take part in Good Friday rites.

The three nuns, Russian Orthodox sisters who live in the Israeli sector of the city, were refused entry by Jordanian authorities on the grounds they carried Soviet passports.

But observers here saw the move as an apparent policy switch decreed by the new government in Amman, where King Hussein ousted a leftist government and consolidated his control over the army.

The nuns — Anna Yermakova, Maria Karpoff and Sophia Yordiskuk — were the only members of Jerusalem's Russian colony who attempted to cross the holy city's frontier for the religious rites.

Only last Christmas, Jordan decided to let Russian nationals pass through the Mandelbaum Gate. The decision was interpreted at the time as a result of Jordan's anti-Western policy following the Suez invasion.

Good Friday dawned here with overcast skies and rain clouds. But later a brisk wind scattered the clouds and the sun burst through.

But the grim reminders of tension were present in the armed border guards, the barbed wire and the dragon-tooth tank traps along the frontier.

The few hundred pilgrims who crossed into the Jordanian sector represented a number of nations. They included clergymen, professors, clerks, students, soldiers and pilgrims of nearly all callings.

Sheriff Hands Over Stickup Probe But GBI Runs Into a Blank Wall

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Investigation of reports of a gangland-style robbery of a Forsyth County private club Friday was turned over to the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

GBI Agent Wallace Wheeler, however declared, "Where there has been no robbery, I don't know what we could start on in trying to run it down."

The investigation was turned over to the GBI by Forsyth Sheriff Loy Barnett after Barnett, Wheeler and Sol. Gen. Sam P. Burtz of Canton visited the club about 3 p.m. Friday and talked to the club manager.

Barnett and Wheeler said the manager, identified as John O. Tyler, told them he was at the club Friday night and that there "had been no robbery."

"He said he don't know how the story got started," Barnett quoted Tyler as saying.

Barnett said he turned the investigation over to the GBI after being told by the manager there had been no robbery. Barnett said, "That's as far as I know to go."

Persistent reports that hooded bandits armed with submachine-guns robbed club operators and 43 patrons of $100,000 in cash have reached Atlanta and Alpharetta police.

Two Atlanta officers assigned to the unincorporated area of Fulton County recovered Sunday the 1957 model sedan belonging to a customer of the club who told them the car was taken from him in the holdup.

Officers said in their official report on the recovery of the automobile—found abandoned beside a service station near Alpharetta—that a black cloth hood was fonud in the car.

Wheeler said he and the other two officials spent more than an hour in the club. He said the manager told them that club operators discovered Wednesday that vandals had entered the club and taken $35 from the cash register.

But he added, they were unable to ascertain how entry was made.

Asked if he planned to pursue the investigation further, Wheeler pointed out that there had been no complaint made to the sheriff, the solicitor or to him.

"I don't see how we can run it down when we can't get a start on it," he declared.

Will Match NATO, Reds Warn West

Russia Says It Will Equal U.S. in Arming of Allies

MOSCOW, April 19 (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov declared at a Kremlin press conference today that Warsaw Pact powers will match NATO bomb for bomb, missile for missile.

Nikita Khrushchev told the Western powers to keep their hands off the Communist world, particularly East Germany, lest it become necessary to "rap your knuckles."

Khrushchev, the Communist party boss, speaking at a Polish Embassy reception, extended a somewhat patronizing hand of friendship to Poland and then directed his remarks to the Western powers.

"DON'T JOKE"

"We want to warn the capitalist countries, do not joke with us, do not try to test us like you did in Hungary with the putsch. You think of doing it, not only in Hungary, but also maybe in East Germany. Be careful. We are not saints and if necessary we will rap your knuckles," he said.

A few minutes earlier, Marshal Zhukov, beribboned Soviet defense minister, told reporters the Soviet Union would see to it that its Communist allies had nuclear weapons and guided missiles to match the weapons America provided for its allies in NATO — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

RETALIATION

"We will carry out all measures necessary to serve as countersteps for any actions that NATO takes," he said. "We have at our disposal adequate means to retaliate against any action of NATO."

Zhukov, Soviet World War II hero, said he did not think much of the theory that nuclear weapons could serve as a deterrent to war.

He told reporters crowded around him in the hot, packed Kremlin reception room: "If there are weapons, they will be used and the proof of it is that the powers are cutting down by half on conventional weapons and relying more and more on nuclear weapons."

HONORS PREMIER

The reception was in honor of Polish Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz, stopping off in Moscow on the way home from a tour of the Orient.

Khrushchev referred to recent efforts of Poland's Communist regime to loosen its ties from the Kremlin:

"We had difficulties last year but that is all part of the past. Just like in history we have fought many times; our troops have been in Poland and your troops have been in Moscow, but that is all history," he said.

Turning to the perspiring Polish Premier, Khrushchev said with a grin: "Comrade Cyrankiewicz, you are now being wooed like a bride but not because you are young."

"WILL NEVER ATTACK"

Continuing in a rambling vein, Khrushchev said the West hopes to find a lever against the Soviet Union, and added, "We will never attack but we will never give in to anyone."

Zhukov, in his talk with reporters, attempted to blame NATO for the present arms race.

"People should become wiser and take steps to stop the arms race, which is demanded by the people, and not by little groups of reactionary militarists," he said.

A correspondent asked Zhukov: If the Soviet Union has the right to conduct nuclear tests does not Britain also have such a right?

"Of course they have," Zhukov replied. "As long as there is no agreement on the ending of tests every state has the right to carry them out to strengthen its defensive capacity. Self-defense is the inalienable right of every state."

Ike's Bills Snarled at Mid-Session

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—President Eisenhower's "modern Republican" legislative program appeared in considerable trouble today at the midway point of the first session of the 85th Congress.

Members of the House and Senate headed home for a 10-day Easter recess with most of their work still before them when they return April 29. After hearing constituents, most may be more firmly fixed on their No. 1 goal—budget cutting and perhaps tax cuts.

So far this year Congress has done only about what it had to do—extend corporate and excise taxes through June 30, 1958, and approve the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine. It also raised the interest rate on U.S. savings bonds to 3¼ per cent.

POSTAL MONEY

After a political row, it gave Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield an extra 41 million dollars to run the Post Office for the rest of the fiscal year. It also put up some other deficiency appropriations to carry the government until June 30.

But most of Eisenhower's legislative program is tied up in committees and the future is dark for such top items as school construction, civil rights, Taft-Hartley amendments, immigration act changes and increases in postal rates.

In addition the budget-cutters can hardly wait to get at the President's $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program. It is their big chance to pare government spending to the point which they might claim justifies a tax reduction on Jan. 1.

Some foreign aid advocates insist that only an all-out fight by Eisenhower can stave off crippling cuts in his program.

The House Rules Committee has scheduled hearings after the Easter recess on the President's civil rights program. It is expected to clear the House but the big question is whether it will pass in time for the Senate to act before the end of the session.

FILIBUSTER THREAT

But even if it does, it is faced with the threat of a Southern filibuster. Last year the House acted so late on civil rights that Senate leaders decided it was useless to bring the program before the upper chamber.

School construction may be sacrificed in the budget cutting drive. The House Education and Labor Committee has slowed action on a five-year, two-billion-dollar program, hoping to present it later when the economy drive may have eased off.

Greenland's Services At Midnight Sunrise

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., April 19 (AP)—Probably the earliest Easter sunrise service in the world will be held at Thule Greenland, Sunday, the Air Force said today.

The 8th Air Force installation at Thule will attend the service on an ice cap when the sun rises at 12:13 a.m., Thule time. An altar will be placed on a sled and pushed out by a weasel, a snow-going vehicle, to the cap.

Slain Girl Lived in Terror of 'Older' Man Who Thrice Tried To Seize Her, Pal Says

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Slain Patricia Ruland had been living in terror of a man who had tried to seize her along darkened streets at least three times in the last two months, a friend of the victim said today.

The slender 19-year-old girl was beaten by a claw hammer and left in the gutter of a rain-soaked Brooklyn street Wednesday night.

Her skull fractured in 17 places while apparently trying to fight off a rape attempt, Miss Ruland died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

The girl friend, Sandra Kullman, 18, said that Miss Ruland had not told her parents of the man trailing her because she did not want to worry them.

Miss Kullman disclosed to police that the victim had told her that the man had tried to grab her several times but had been frightened off by her screams. Miss Ruland told her, she said, that the man once jumped at her from a dark alley.

She said Miss Ruland had been so terrorized by her assailant that she could only describe him as an "older man," possibly in his late thirties.

The disclosure made it appear that Miss Ruland may have been seized and forced into a car while walking home from a neighborhood luncheonette where she had had coffee with two young men, both friends. A neighbor said she saw Miss Ruland walking towards home at about 10:30 p.m. Her body was dumped from a car a mile away about 70 minutes later.

A tall, blond young man who attempted to seize an 18-year-old girl near the Ruland home less than a week ago also was sought by police.

Alice McCann, 18, told police that a tall, blond man wearing a tweed coat had grabbed her near the Ruland home last Saturday. She said he hit her on the head, but jumped into a parked car and fled when she screamed.

Beck Scorns AFL-CIO's Suspension

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Dave Beck, embattled Teamsters Union president, said today he regards as without effect his suspension as an AFL-CIO officer for being implicated in labor rackets investigations.

"I consider myself to be a member of the AFL-CIO Executive Council and view the purported suspension as a nullity," Beck wrote AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Beck's letter recited legal contentions and sounded like a preliminary toward a possible court suit aimed at compelling reversal of his suspension as an AFL-CIO council member and vice president.

The letter to Meany was one of several Beck made public today elaborating on resolutions by the Teamsters Union Executive Board which protested Beck's suspension and corruption charges aimed at ouster of the Teamsters Union itself from the AFL-CIO.

The federation's charges against Beck and his union are based on Beck's refusal to tell Senate rackets investigators about his admitted personal use of large sums of Teamsters Union funds. Other high Teamsters officials are under court indictments.

Tornadoes, Rain, Fog Kill 9 in Middle West

By United Press

Tornadoes rammed their way through parts of Oklahoma, Nebraska and Wisconsin Friday in a spring weather onslaught blamed for nine deaths.

A United Press count showed at least nine deaths and possibly 11 caused by a combination of twisters, rain storms and dense fogs.

Wisconsin accounted for six deaths and possibly eight. A twister killed one man, a lightning bolt another, and two Glencoe, Minn., men died while trying to make an emergency plane landing during a rain storm at La Crosse. In addition, two traffic deaths were blamed on dense fog which shrouded the state earlier and a motorboat, possibly swamped by windlashed waves, sank. Two boys drowned.

3 TRAFFIC DEATHS

Elsewhere, three traffic deaths in Illinois were also fog-caused.

Warnings of more possible tornadoes Friday night were issued for parts of Oklahoma, Texas and Iowa.

Most of Wisconsin was buffeted by tornadoes, thunderstorms and wild winds.

The sheriff's office at Mauston reported William Mellis, about 60, was killed by a twister which ripped through farm buildings five miles north of Necedah.

An overpowering winds and rain storm drove through New Lisbon, Wis., overturning a shack housing civil defense headquarters and damaging television antennas.

TEACHER KILLED

Near Oconomowoc, high school teacher Oscar Dobratz, 45, was killed by a lightning bolt as he tested soil on a farm.

At Beaver Dam, a motorboat loaded with nine teenagers swamped and sank. Two boys, Vince Ptashinski, 17, and Edward Schliewe, 18, drowned.

Winds up to 50-miles-an hour whistled through Iowa and tornadoes danced around the McCook, Neb., area.

A small twister sent a tree crashing against a farm home near Culbertson, Neb., but the six occupants, including four children, were not injured. Tornado funnels were reported on the northern edge of McCook and at Trenton, west of McCook, but they apparently did not touch ground.

LIVESTOCK KILLED

Near Bartlesville, Okla., a tornado roared through a dairy farm, killing livestock and destroying buildings. Power at nearby Ramona, Okla., was snapped off for two hours.

Wild winds also tore through Texas. Barns were uprooted and trees torn down near San Antonio.

Weather experts predicted the turbulent weather should clear up in most of the nation in time for Easter, except for scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers in the East and South.

Express Strike Threat

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The Teamsters Union, seeking pay increases, said today a strike has been authorized for midnight Sunday for some 2,000 members employed by the Railway Express Agency in seven cities. The drivers are employed in Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Newark, N.J., Philadelphia, San Francisco and St. Louis.

howers at Thomasville in February.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.), was aboard the plane, having been extended a courtesy ride by the President. He went directly to his home in Aiken, across the Savannah River.

PLAYS 18 HOLES

Up early this morning, the President worked from 8 a.m., until 11 a.m., and then headed for the golf course. He hit some practice shots with Ed Dudley, veteran club professional.

Then he tried his hand at a little fishing in the small lake behind "Mamie's Cabin" that has been named "Ike's Pond," but had no luck.

Ike's famous good luck with Augusta weather turned up again, however, and after lunch he played 18 holes of golf in sunny weather that sent the mercury to 82 degrees.

Eisenhower also announced his intention of appointing three new ambassadors to Mexico, Sweden and Colombia.

ADENAUER PLANS VISIT

And the President disclosed that he and Mrs. Eisenhower plan to attend Easter services Sunday at Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church. They probably will be accompanied by Secretary and Mrs. Humphrey.

The President also revealed that German chancellor Konrad Adenauer will fly to New York May 24, spend the week end "privately" in that area and then visit Washington May 27.

Adenauer will be joined by German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Barntano.

The shuffling of diplomatic assignments announced by Eisenhower will send Marvin C. Hill, a New Hampshire career man in the State Department, to Mexico as ambassador.

Hill will suceed Francis White, who will move to Sweden, succeeding Ambassador John M. Cabot. This will send Cabot to Colombia, succeeding Ambassador Philip W. Vonsal, who already has been reassigned to Bolivia.

The Senate will have to confirm these appointments after its Easter recess.

40 Are Hurt In Crash of NY Subways

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — A subway stalled in a Brooklyn tunnel tonight and a second train roared around a sharp curve and crashed into it from the rear.

From 40 to 60 persons were injured, most of them but slightly. Twenty-five were taken to hospitals, none in critical condition. The motorman of one train was trapped in his crushed cab for nearly two hours, but survived.

A moment of panic swept the 200 persons aboard the two trains. Women screamed. Passengers were thrown from their seats. Windows broke and glass flew through the air.

The main lights of the trains went out. However, dim emergency lights saved the riders from the terror of total darkness.

When it became apparent there were no serious injuries, the tumult subsided and the passengers began an orderly exit through emergency connections between the tunnel and the street.

The crash scene was in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, behind the navy yard and not far from the Williamsburg Bridge.

Mexican Road Signs Will Be Non-Adaptable

MEXICO CITY, April 19 (AP)—Highway signs made of concrete with luminous paint lettering are included in Mexico's four-million-dollar road improvement program. The old wooden signs never lasted long. Country people used them for building material and firewood.

IN CHICAGO STORE

Police Trap, Kill 3 On Underworld Tip

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—Three safecrackers were killed early today by a volley of machine-gun and shotgun fire when they walked into a police trap in a State street department store.

A tip from the underworld, possibly from a rival gang, set the trap for the safecrackers in the darkness of Mandel's Department Store.

The thieves were after $250,000 in the store's safe.

The gunmen were James Rentner, 30, ex-suburban policeman and a former Mandel store detective until he was fired; James Wulf, 28, and Vincent Bartemio, 22.

SEVEN DETECTIVES

Seven detectives, disguised as janitors, waited more than seven hours in the blackness for the burglars to appear.

Shortly after midnight, three men appeared, carrying a suitcase and cardboard carton loaded with two portable acetylene gas tanks, welding torches and crowbars. They passed within a few feet of the detectives hiden about the small cashier's office.

Sgt. James O'Neill, leader of the police stakeout, waited for the burglars to lay out their tools.

Then he shouted "Police Officers! Give up!" O'Neill fired a machine gun blast into the ceiling as he yelled.

CAME OUT FIRING

The safecrackers, all wearing gloves and carrying pistols, came charging out of the office, firing in front of them. They ran into the concentrated fire of four shotguns and three sub-machineguns.

Police said Rentner kept firing until he hit the floor, his empty gun locked in his hand. A small transistor radio, tuned to police calls, kept blaring from Wulf's pocket after he was dead.

Bullet holes pocked the maze of glass partitions and gouged hunks from wood and plaster walls in the store's offices.

Police believed one of the gang had escaped. They reasoned someone must have been waiting in a getaway car, but no such vehicle was found. The other safecrackers apparently had hidden in a washroom when the store closed, they said.

U.S. Wants Rate Rise on Parcel Post

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—The Post Office Department notified the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it soon plans to ask for rate increases on parcel post and fourth class mail.

Department General Counsel Abe McGregor Goff said in a petition to the commission that the Post Office has an annual deficit of about $4,300,000 because of the increased costs for mailing catalogs and packages.

Postal officials told the commission that Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield is preparing to submit specific proposals "within a reasonable period of time."

Officials asked the commission to investigate the possibility of granting rates high enough so that revenue will cover the cost of handling fourth class mail.

The commission, by law, sets fourth class mail rates. It authorized a 36 per cent increase in 1953.

The Post Office Department also is asking Congress for other rate increases totaling 462 million dollars in the year starting July 1 and $527,500,000 by 1961. Under this proposal, the regular letter rate would be raised from three to four cents.

Senate Panel Orders 8-City Probe Of Union Racketeering, Violence

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee has ordered staff investigators into eight major cities to check out complaints of union mismanagement, violence and other improper practices, a spokesman said today.

A committee source said investigators are, or soon will be busy in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Philadelphia and Omaha, Neb. He added that inquiries also will be launched in St. Louis and Detroit "in the not too distant future."

The spokesman said the committee has now received more than 25,000 complaints from almost every metropolitan area in the nation. He said the Teamsters still lead all other unions in the complaints. After they are read, investigators make on-the-spot checks of the most promising leads.

The committee is expected to open public hearings soon on widespread charges of labor racketeering in the New York area. They are expected to involve the Teamsters, the carpenters, the operating engineers and possibly some well-known underworld figures.

Investigators have been busy in Seattle for some time establishing the groundwork for a second round of questioning of Dave Beck, millionaire general president of the Teamsters.

Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times last month when asked about charges that he had taken more than $322,000 from union treasuries and still had not repaid some $50,000.

The committee also has had a sizable staff at work in Philadelphia. The Los Angeles investigation includes, among other things, contracts for rubbish and garbage collection. Another investigator is in Omaha examining affairs of the Teamsters and other unions.

Although the committee has more than 50 investigators, it has not had time to check all complaints which have diminished only slightly in volume in recent weeks.

The committee recessed for the Easter holiday yesterday after three days of hearings on union violence in the Scranton, Pa., area.

However, Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) served notice the group wants the Justice Department's explanation of why federal indictments were returned against Teamster officials accused of accepting money from contractors, but not from the businessmen who allegedly paid the money.

He specifically asked why there was no indictment against contractor E. P. Bettendorf. Teamster business agents Robert Malloy and Joseph McHugh were indicted for accepting $4,200 from Bettendorf.

The Justice Department said it had no comment. However, in Scranton, special U.S. Prosecutor Oliver Dibble said Bettendorf was not indicted because he will testify against the union leaders.

Dibble said that when the government finds evidence of payoffs, the grand jury has the "choice" of saying whether the payer or receiver is the more "culpable."

"If we indicted both in such a case we wouldn't be able to make one testify against the other," Dibble said. "So the grand jury decides which one is, so to speak, the more guilty and returns the indictment against him. Then the other serves as a witness."

Chamblee, Dobbins Bases Need Cash, Officials Say

Gasoline Shortage Is Blamed For Curbing of Flight Training

Insufficient funds to purchase gasoline are curtailing training programs at the Chamblee Naval Air Station and Dobbins Air Force Base, military officials indicated Friday.

Capt. R. E. Stieler, NAS commanding officer, said his pilots' proficiency for combat is being impaired by the lack of sufficient operating funds.

Dobbins officials said that because of an end-of-the-fiscal-year money squeeze, "We are having to watch our flying hours very closely."

Stieler said the Chamblee station's usual quarterly allocation of $130,000 has been cut to $47,000 for the fourth quarter of the current fiscal year.

"Our pilots are supposed to get a minimum of 100 hours flying time a year," Stieler said. "The money shortage has forced us to order a maximum of two hours a month for each pilot."

There are about 500 "Weekend Warriors" in the Atlanta area. There also are 20 reserve pilots on active duty at the air station.

U.S. Urges Relaxing of China Trade

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—The United States has proposed limited relaxation of nonstrategic trade controls applied against Communist China by free world nations.

Officials making this known today said the nature of the proposal is still confidential.

However it appeared to be less sweeping than Britain's announced intention to lower its present trade controls with Communist China to the same level as now applies in Britain's dealings with the Soviet Union and the European Communist bloc.

The United States is said to favor some tightening of restrictions with the Soviet Union to bring the two lists closer together, rather than loosening China controls so much.

There is no indication here of an inclination to relax the total embargo on trade with Red China by the United States itself.

That embargo has applied since 1953 when Peiping intervened in the Korean war. Looser rules are applied to European Soviet bloc nations on the ground they are not actual belligerents.

ALLIES STUDY PLAN

Officials said the U. S. proposal had been turned over to Japanese, British and other interested diplomatic representatives in the last few days.

Originally it was intended to keep the proposal confidential but disclosure in the British House of Commons this week forced the hand of American officials.

Secretary of State Dulles at the recent Bermuda conference is reported to have advised the British this country was not averse to restudying the China trade question as it affects America's trading partners.

IKE SHOWS SYMPATHY

At his news conference last week President Eisenhower indicated sympathy for the Japanese position. He asked what the Japanese are to do it they are cut off from their traditional Asian market while at the same time American competitors seek to curb their trade here.

Russia Asks Joint Action On Mideast

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — Russia was reported tonight to be making a new bid for a stronger role in the affairs of the troubled Middle East.

A new note from Moscow to the United States was understood to call for joint big-power action on several Middle Eastern problems and to criticize again the use of American bases and military aid to countries in the area.

State Department officials said the note was delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. A brief summary was received by the State Department this afternoon. Officials declined to disclose its nature or indicate American reaction.

However, it was learned that in general the latest Soviet approach parallels the line taken in a Russian note on Feb. 11 to the United States, Britain and France. That called for big-power declaration on six points, including abandonment of military alliances like the U.S. air base at Dhahran and cutting off of arms shipments to the Middle East.

City Regime Held Rusty By Lindsey

The city administration is "tired and worn out," Atlanta mayoralty candidate Archie Lindsey charged Friday night. His criticism ranged from the present lottery scandal to development of the municipal airport.

Cause of the present lottery situation, Lindsey maintains, "lies in the fact that the present administration has been in office too long, it cannot correct its own errors, it will not audit its own accounts."

A conscientious officer who reports a failure of law enforcement is called "an eager beaver," charged Lindsey. He added that the officer "is discredited and forced to resign." His complaint is "lost in the oblivion of bureaucratic politics."

LACKS IMAGINATION

Lindsey also criticized administration of the Atlanta Airport as a "subject of constant controversy." The reason is "lack of imagination" and "inability and unwillingness to cooperate with other groups," he said.

"Glaring ommissions" in the present airport situation are the lack of an adequate terminal building and a lack of a suitable road to the airport. "Both of these are long overdue," said Lindsey. "Nothing but the stubborness of a tired and worn out administration has delayed their reality."

Lindsey was asked why federal and county law enforcement officers were needed to bring to light an alleged lottery center in Atlanta. "The police system is bad from the top," he replied. The ordinary policeman is not to blame, but should be provided with good leadership and "turned loose" to enforce the laws, Lindsey said.

NO DISHONESTY

Said Lindsey, speaking on WAGA-TV: "I do not charge the present administration with being stupid or dishonest . . ."

"However, I do charge that it is tired and worn out, that its sense of proportion has been dulled, its ideals have become blunted, its policies have become short-sighted, its ambitions have been turned from valid ambitions for a great and growing community to narrow and selfish ambitions for a limited group of individuals and especially for the mayor."

Morocco Bans All American Wire Offices

RABAT, Morocco, April 19 (AP) The Moroccan government today ordered all American cable and telegraph offices in this newly independent country to close down by June 30.

The government charged that Mackay Radio Telegraph Co. and the Radio Corp. of America had opened offices in Morocco without government permission, violating the government communications monopoly.

Both firms have established multimillion-dollar transmission facilities in Tangier. These, however, did not seem to be under attack.

It was understood that they would be allowed to continue operations in Tangier if they pay a percentage of profits to the Moroccan government, which is taking over the former international territory.

Youths Switch Boats in Midstream, Land in Hot Water as Plot Goes Asea

Four teen-age boys ran afoul of the law while swapping boats in the middle of the stream Friday.

The boys, all 14 years of age, were on a camping trip down the Chattahoochee River when the action began, Patrolmen T. L. Orr and J. A. Thompson said.

The youths took one boat from the Holcombe road crossing, traveled part of their journey down the river in it and abandoned it in favor of another. They continued on their trip, finally discarding the boat in favor of one owned by Herbert Fields of a Riverside road address in Fulton County.

Fields followed the boys and apprehended them near the Willeo road crossing.

The boys and their equipment were turned over to juvenile authorities.

(Names of first offenders under 17 years old are withheld in accordance with the Georgia Juvenile Law.)

5 Fined and 18 Indicted In Cobb Gambling Raid

The Cobb County grand jury indicted 18 persons on gambling charges Friday in connection with a raid on an alleged gambling house at 6648 Powers Ferry Rd., near the Chattahoochee River.

Five persons paid fines in the same case.

4 PLEAD GUILTY

Four men from East Point pleaded guilty to gambling charges and were fined $250 each in superior court. They were listed on court records as: Harry P. Rogers, 24, 901 S. Church St.; Otis H. An Atlantan pleaded no contest to two charges of aiding and abetting the operation of a gaming house and paid a fine of $500. He was listed on court records as William Herbert Sharp, 48, 2735 Tupelo St., SE.

Hames said the grand jury indicted the following persons:

ABETTING CHARGE

Indict Clerk In Shortage Of $686 Here

A counter clerk for an automotive electric firm Friday was indicted on a charge of larceny after trust of $686.69 from the firm.

The indictment charged J. H. Roberts, 46, of 5036 Akin Dr., NW, with taking the money from Auto Electric Co. of Georgia, Inc., 115 Piedmont Ave., NE.

A police report said the shortage was turned up by bookkeepers.

The grand jury also returned indictments against two women on charges of manufacturing obscene photographs. Helen Wilcox, 32, of Rte. 2, Stone Mountain, and Vivian Hopkins of an Atlanta address, were charged with posing for the photos.

The indictments followed police raids on a Northeast Atlanta home and on the laboratory of an Atlantan during which quantities of obscene pictures were seized.

The persons charged with making the pictures were indicted last week.

Prototype of Satellite To Be Fired by Navy

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP). The Navy announced today it will test "in the near future" a prototype of the small rocket which will give the earch satellite its final kick into space.

The firing will take place at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida.

Lama Exchanges Ancient Palace For 4-Room Flat

HONG KONG, April 19 (AP)—The Dalai Lama, Tibet's spiritual leader, moved from his ancient 1,000-room palace today into a tiny Communist built residence which Peiping radio boasted has all "modern conveniences."

"A solemn religious ceremony," the broadcast said, marked the transfer from Potala Palace, historic home of 13 previous Dalai Lamas to the new, less pretentious structure.

The new residence, the Peiping radio said, is a Tibetan style house with four rooms—a scripture hall, bedroom, sitting room and office.

JERE CONNOR TO TWIRL FOR BAND

Atlanta Girl Chosen Solo Majorette For U. of Georgia's Dixie Redcoats

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, April 19—A pretty Atlanta miss whose ambition is to study medicine has been selected as the solo twirler for the 1957-58 edition of the University of Georgia's Dixie Redcoat Band.

She is Miss Jere Connor, a personable "A" student from Atlanta's Druid Hills High School.

Miss Connor won out over stiff competition for the solo twirler position with the Georgia band. Winning honors is nothing new for Miss Connor, however. Two years ago she won first place in the Spalding County twirling contest and last year won first place in the Georgia AAU championship contest held in Atlanta.

Miss Connor's musical talents go beyond twirling. She also is a competent flutist and has played in school organizations for the past seven years.

At the university Jere will be the second Connor girl on campus. Her sister, Carolann, who has won nearly all the beauty titles the university has to offer, will be a senior next year.

In the same tryouts in which Jere won her new position Elaine Merrell of Decatur was chosen as a member of the band's majorettes.

Next year's Dixie Redcoat Band also will include seven new members in its colorful 20-member flag-twirling corps, the Georgettes. These new members are Shannon Pittendreigh, Ware Shoals, S.C.; Mary Jane Minor, Atlanta; Carol Wood, Dalton; Patricia Patterson, Fitzgerald; Norma Ellis, Cedartown; Yvonne Gibson, Thomasville, and Jan Yates, Hartwell.

Selected as first, second and third alternate Georgettes are, respectively, Jo Anna Hudgins, Athens; Marianna Moore, LaGrange, and Martha James, Athens.

Let Others Follow Cobb County's Lead

Action by the Cobb County Grand Jury in returning 18 indictments in connection with alleged gambling activities at a house on Powers Ferry road is a welcome development.

It follows strong recommendations by Cobb Superior Court Judge Manning that the jury take action to end gambling in so-called private clubs in the county. The Cobb jury should now move forthrightly to stop the growth of this evil wherever it is found in the county.

Reports to this newspaper indicate that in at least two other counties bordering Fulton similar action should be taken. There have been repeated protests from people that they have literally "been taken to the cleaners" at private clubs. Fulton police authorities know about them but are powerless to close them up.

How do these clubs remain open when their existence is known and their notoriety continues to grow? Who are they who are not doing their duty? And why aren't they? Are the courts and law enforcement agencies powerless?

These are questions which the people in the counties concerned might well ask themselves and do something about.

The alleged robbery of a "private club" and all its patrons in Forsyth County of amounts estimated at $100,000 is an example of what can happen.

Organized gambling is a cancer which brings on many evils. It breeds other organized crime and corruption of officials. The lottery scandal in Atlanta with all its implications is a case in point.

Tolerance of such conditions inevitably leads down the road to the situation which held Phenix City, Ala., captive so many years. Organized crime and gambling go hand in hand and cannot exist if determined citizens demand law enforcement. If people want to keep their counties and cities decent, safe places in which to live, they have the power to do so.

Meanwhile, the move to drive gambling out of Cobb County sets an example others might well follow.

Everyone Has a Stake In Control of Cancer

Medical science is nearing a breakthrough in its war on cancer, according to all indications. Almost every day there is another encouraging report about research and treatment of this baffling killer.

Only recently most people believed erroneously that cancer was incurable. Today most of us know that one in three cancer patients is being saved by surgery and radiation. Unfortunately, though, there are certain forms of the disease which cannot be cured by any means now known.

Here is where research must fill in the missing knowledge leading to a final definite cure of all forms of the disease. Once the cause is known, a cure will be forthcoming.

So encouraged is the medical profession about the prospect of finding a cure that drug manufacturers are increasing their research programs considerably in anticipation of success. They were recently voted $1,500,000 in aid by the House of Representatives.

This year the American Cancer Society is prepared to invest as much as eight million dollars in research programs and grants to physicians and scientists. But this money must be raised by individual donations in the campaign now going on.

The Georgia chapter of this society is now conducting its annual drive for funds as well as its educational campaign to save lives. With such encouraging prospects as we now have—thanks largely to the society's efforts in the past—citizens should give all-out support.

Cancer is a threat to everybody now living. Surely this fact alone should encourage each of us to do whatever possible to end it.

Employment Picture Is Bright Spot in South

More than 95 per cent of the South's labor force was employed in February, according to a report from the Atlanta field office of the U.S. Department of Commerce. All the states, including Georgia, shared in a general uptrend.

This figure, based on the number of estimated people of employment age in the 16-state area, indicates a healthy economic recovery from the jitters of February and March. The region is again on the move and might be headed for another record year.

The figures reveal, too, that industrial and business employment are still on the rise. Of the 95.4 per cent employed in the South, 83.5 per cent had jobs in nonfarm categories. The other 11.9 per cent were employed on farms.

A healthy sign, too, is the increase in construction workers. The building field added 70,000 people to its payrolls, leading all other activities in rate of gain.

All in all, the outlook for 1957 is not at all the gloomy picture which some like to paint. On the contrary, it is very bright indeed.

GOP Leads the Revolt Against Ike's Program

President Eisenhower's suggestions to Congress on how his budget proposals could be trimmed may have come too late to check a full-scale congressional revolt, especially within his own party, which might do genuine harm to some of the country's vital programs.

Oddly enough, the revolt was set off by a top member of the President's official family—Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. The secretary, who helped prepare the budget, started the ball rolling with attacks on it last January. It has been gathering momentum ever since, with GOP members of Congress completely disregarding presidential leadership.

In the last few days the country has seen some of the difficulties inherent in budget cutting. Congress' argument with the Post Office Dept. resulted in a semi-paralysis of mail service and a congressional retreat.

But the President lost humiliatingly in his plea that 25 per cent not be cut from his request for funds for the U.S. Information Agency. This is an example of how cuts can damage a necessary program in the contest with communism.

Except for Humphrey, it is apparent that most Cabinet members agree with Eisenhower. Each of them feels that the budget is in line with expanding U.S. needs and its four million additional people each year. They also fear cuts in military and foreign aid which would endanger the leadership the free world needs from us and the national security.

Congress, indeed, can cut out some of its pork barrel projects as the President suggested. It could also increase efficiency and economy and save several billions perhaps by putting into effect the remainder of the Hoover Commission recommendations.

Efficiency and economy in government could save billions without endangering vital programs. But the revolt started by George Humphrey is going to cause the President a lot of headaches before it runs its course. Ike, in the meantime, must call up all his reserves of leadership to salvage his program.

L. G. Hardman Receives A Deserved Recognition

Recognition to Georgia and to a well-deserving Georgian came recently at Palm Beach, Fla., when Lamartine G. Hardman of Commerce was elected president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute.

"Lam" Hardman long has been a leader in textile manufacturing, in finance and in civic affairs in the state.

He has served the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute as director and as vice president. The industry nationally knows this Georgian as a man of ability and leadership.

He has been elevated to the top post in the ACMI at a time when cotton looks ahead with confidence.

The Constitution congratulates Mr. Hardman on the position he has achieved among his fellows. He and the industry have our best wishes for a prosperous future.

Cities Can Be Starved For Lack of Attention

Municipal officials in 47 states must look with envy upon their brethren in Wisconsin.

The governor there has an understanding of big city problems. In his plan for the future he has a place for Wisconsin's largest city.

Says Gov. Thomson of Wisconsin, "Milwaukee cannot be overlooked in planning Wisconsin's future. Whatever affects Milwaukee, economically or socially, has a direct bearing on the welfare and progress of our entire state."

Mayor Zeidler of Milwaukee said he was happy to hear the governor's statement. He said it was "encouraging," especially in light of the fact that in recent times the city has been the whipping boy of the Legislature.

Other mayors in other metropolitan areas in other states would be encouraged by like statements from their governors.

By his statement, Gov. Thomson of Wisconsin has shown an intelligent understanding of a universal situation. The municipality is a governmental entity. Yet economically, socially and politically, it is part and parcel of the state.

Urban residents should not be taxed and taxed and taxed for state services without getting their proportionate share of the revenue back.

It is possible to kill the city goose that lays the golden tax egg.

'Passive Resistance' Taught by Christ Called Powerful Force That Will Bring End to War

Jackson, S.C.—If people spoke as they actually think, I believe most of them would agree with me.

Neither our sons nor our money will avert war. In wars succeeding wars over the vast centuries that have rolled away, not one ever permanently settled anything.

"Our sons or our money"; either way we are bankrupt. A new generation comes up and the vicious circle begins again.

I believe in the "passive resistance" that Christ taught the ancient Judeans nearly 2,000 years ago. He knew that revolt against Rome was futile. He also knew the bestiality of man killing man. He taught them to rely on the spiritual force that was within themselves.

The "have not" nations covet that which we have. It has always been so.

Eventually the soulless nations will defeat themselves. Let natural forces destroy the enemy.

Violence at Koinonia Deplored by Minister

Stoughton, Mass.—I am appalled that anyone who calls himself a Christian could treat the people at Koinonia Farms in the manner as has been reported to us.

We have built our American way on the New Testament. As I see it, the way of Christ is that all people are brothers.

It seems to me that all our nation seeks to do to bring peace is for naught as long as our own lives are dirty.

I do not stand alone in this concern for the brotherhood of all people. To me the Gospel loses all of its meaning if even one is left outside when he might be with us in concern and love.

ROBERT J. MacCLEOD,
Minister, First Congregational Church.

'Ere Our Dust Blows Where the Lilies Grow'

Jacksonville, Fla.—Our Greenest Hope:

Give us this Easter, Lord, our greenest hope,
Whose little span of time is always change;
Whose days, like wheat, fulfil their horoscope
Of emerald to gold. Men rearrange
Their love and hate as fashions may decree—
But never celestial clocks of eternal hours—
Never the noons where afternoons should be—
Never the fruit before the cycle of flowers.

Give us this Easter, Lord; renew the pledge
That somewhere springtides never fail, nor birds
Grow mute, nor fragrance leaves the snowy hedge,
Nor poverty is felt in mortal words.
Give us the constancy we strive to know . . .
Before our dust is blown where lilies grow.

Architects Appreciated Editorial of Welcome

Atlanta — If architects had the skill to put in words what most of us feel about architecture, we would have written the editorial you devoted to the AIA Regional Conference. It was a splendid job of putting our profession before the public as we would want it put.

Now most of us are back at our drawing boards trying to live up to your statements. Your kind words served the public as well as the architects.

Russian Atomic-Terror Notes Don't Frighten Tiny Norway

Among mariners the courage and stout-hearted character of Norwegian seamen has long been proverbial. That the government of Norway is similarly courageous and stout-hearted is abundantly proved by the Norwegian reply to the threatening Soviet note of March 19.

Quietly, but without ambiguity, the Norwegian note makes clear to Moscow that the defense of Norway is a Norwegian matter, not one subject to dictation in any way by bluster or threats. The note reaffirms Norway's membership in the North Atlantic Alliance and, in effect, reads Moscow a lecture on its defensive goals and the reasons why that organization is needed.

In the face of Soviet threats of hydrogen bomb warfare the Norwegian note does not hesitate to repeat Norway's—and the free world's—belief that the Hungarian revolution was "an uprising of a nation for its freedom and independence."

Clearly the Norwegian reply to Moscow offers a model for all other nations which have been recent targets for Moscow's atomic terror propaganda.

Tiny Norway was able to reply in these terms to the Russian colossus because Norway does not stand alone. The Norwegian government and people know that between them and the implementation of the Soviet threats stands a shield, the armed power of NATO, including that of the United States.

Implicit in the Norwegian stand is the confidence that there will be no future Munichs and that the shield which now defends free Europe will remain strong.

But will that shield remain strong enough? This is the key question for the future.

The West is tending more and more to depend on nuclear means of defense. It seems unthinkable that we should be the first to use a hydrogen bomb and we chose during the Korean War not even to use atomic bombs. Are we not losing our capacity to meet military challenges based upon hordes of soldiers, hordes which the huge manpower of the Soviet Union and Communist China can easily supply?

Perhaps the most vivid military lesson of the Hungarian tragedy was the fact that the Soviet Union still has available and ready for immediate action substantial numbers of ground troops, well-equipped and well-trained for use without nuclear weapons. For the free world's shield to be adequate it must have balance, and balance presupposes that we do not put all our defensive eggs in one basket.

Augusta Chronicle

Americans have spent their first weekend without adequate mail service and they didn't like it. . . .

The whole postal debacle is a pretty sorry spectacle. In order that there should not be a repetition of it next year or at any time in the future, Congress should launch into an inquiry into the affairs of the Post Office Department and those responsible for operating it.

There should never be any disruption of this vital service.

The Postman Rings Today

Congress has assured Arthur Summerfield he can collect on delivery. The postman will make the rounds today as usual. Almost everyone will be pleased, but not all. An executive-type acquaintance said of last Saturday's mail curtailment, he did not mind so much. In fact, he said, it would be all right with him if the phones didn't ring from Friday night until Monday morning.

The man likes it quiet. He's the one who said his wife hadn't spoken to him for three weeks and he didn't want to interrupt her.

Speaking of the regularity of the postman on his rounds, I am reminded of the ardent swain who sought to impress his heart's desire by sending her a letter every day. This went on for six weeks. Then she married the postman.

CLOSE THE BOX: And speaking of the postal service, there is a story about the department official who went out to inspect a post office run as part of the general store. There are plenty, by the way, still run that way.

This inspector was not at all pleased with what he saw. The mail was piled up in a disorganized way. The bookkeeping system was strictly rule of thumb. The place was dark and dingy.

The inspector lit into the postmaster, an elderly fellow who was also the storekeeper. The inspector promised the report to headquarters would be full and derogatory.

The old man stood all he could.

Suddenly, he turned on the inspector, shoved into his hand a cigar box that held a few dusty stamps and said, "Now, by thunder, you git out of here! And when you go, take your danged post office with you."

GEORGIA LILIES: "Wednesday," the weekly report on activities at the University of Georgia, says the finest Easter lilies you will see tomorrow give testimony to 35 years' research by the Georgia horticulture department. In 1922, Roy Bowden started a study of the Georgia lily. D. L. Gill of the Tifton Experiment Station has continued the study that has brought the Georgia species to a state of near perfection.

Colonists brought lily bulbs from the Azores to Savannah in 1733. From those parent bulbs, the lily has spread across the state and the nation.

Many Still Persist In Burying Christ

"Low in the grave He lay, Jesus my Saviour!" Because it was against the law for one to remain on a Cross on the Sabbath, they took Jesus down Friday just before sundown. One of the soldiers thrust a spear in His side and made sure He was dead. Then stepped forth Joseph of Arimathea, a wealthy man, to offer his own fine tomb for Christ.

That was a fine thing to do. It saved the Lord from being buried in the potter's field. This was a new tomb hewn out of solid rock, in which no man had ever lain. His friends lovingly prepared His body. They sealed the tomb with a great stone.

Remembering how Christ had said, "After three days I will rise again," the chief priests and Pharisees came to Pilate requesting a guard. They did not really believe He would rise but they did believe His disciples might try to steal His body and pretend He had risen. They did set a watch of soldiers and they securely sealed the stone. However, it was not in the mind of the disciples to steal His body. They had given up hope and now were a group of disillusioned, frightened men. Suppose Jesus had remained buried? What a different world this would be!

Thinking of His tomb, I am glad Joseph made it available to Him and I thank Joseph for it. But I wish Joseph had declared himself earlier. The record is that Joseph was a disciple, "but secretly for fear of the Jews" (John 19:38). I wish Joseph had had the courage to be open with His discipleship. A beautiful flower blesses no one if it is kept in the darkness of the cellar. Love in our hearts for others does not bless unless it is expressed.

The Bible refers to Joseph as "an honorable counselor, which also waited for the Kingdom of God" (Mark 15:43). But kingdoms don't come by people waiting for them. Kingdoms come because of people who do something besides wait. Sometimes we measure our goodness by the sins we do not commit. But goodness is positive; it must be measured by what we do.

On this Saturday of Holy Week as we think of a buried Christ, we also think of how He is still buried in so many ways. Often He is buried within our own lives because of our failures to witness and openly live for Him. He is buried in our society by many wrongs and injustices. Sometimes He is even buried by our worship of Him — worship that does not result in service.

For many years there stood in a darkened corner of a church a magnificent statue of Christ. One day the church caught on fire and the people moved the furnishings out into the streets. In the very center of the street someone happened to place the statue. People saw it and were inspired by it. Someone was heard to say, "What a pity to have kept Christ in the church when He might have been on the street for all men to see."

President Can't Win In the '58 Elections

WASHINGTON—It is hard to see how the Eisenhower administration can reap any benefit at all from next year's congressional elections—regardless of which party wins! Here is what I mean: If the Republicans fail to regain at least the Senate, where they are now short only one seat for control, it hardly can fail to impair the prestige of the administration and make it more difficult for Eisenhower to deal with Congress.

But if the Republican Party does regain control of the Senate, it will be because a substantial number of anti-Eisenhower Republican senators have been returned to office where they can continue to oppose Eisenhower policies with renewed strength.

The way this congressional election shapes up now, no matter who wins it looks as though the President would lose.

Fully half of the Republican senatorial candidates who will go before the voters next fall are either anti-Eisenhower Republicans — McCarthy of Wisconsin, Goldwater of Arizona, Jenner of Indiana, Malone of Nevada—or on the basis of their voting record substantially opposed to what the President stands for — like Barrett of Wyoming, Bricker of Ohio, Hruska of Nebraska, Revercomb of West Virginia, Martin of Pennsylvania.

For the most part these Republican senators are not going to be running on the Republican national platform of 1956.

If very many of them lose it will mean that the President's party will have lost Congress for the third consecutive election.

If very many of them win, it will mean that "Modern Republicanism" will be weaker than ever.

One thing is clear: Sen. Joseph McCarthy faces a formidable challenge for renomination in Wisconsin.

The apparently firm reports from Wisconsin are that former Republican Gov. Walter J. Kohler is ready to take the plunge and that this time there will be no drawing back.

Kohler has started down the one-way street that leads to a head-on collision between an extraordinarily popular former governor and an extraordinarily aggressive personal campaigner, the twice-elected incumbent senator.

Kohler would enter the race against McCarthy with a good competitive record — a record which on the surface would seem to give him an edge. Twice he has run simultaneously with Sen. McCarthy and each time he fared much better with the Wisconsin voters.

There is no sure way to gauge McCarthy's present voting strength in Wisconsin. He has lost influence in Washington but it does not follow that he has lost strength in his home state.

Certainly a Kohler-McCarthy campaign would be a meaningful primary choice between two different candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination—Kohler, a middle-road pro-Eisenhower Republican, and McCarthy, an anti-Eisenhower Republican at nearly all points.

Presidential Derby Is Wide Open Now

WASHINGTON—Almost every day Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield's widely advertised mailman has been delivering to this office—and probably to many others—a plain postcard dedicated to promoting a presidential boom for one of the Democratic senators. Whoever sends it—it comes from New York City—evidently is counting on human nature to react as human nature.

He is betting that sooner or later the recipient will yield to temptation and say something about it. He wins. It is herewith revealed that the card, hand-written in pencil, says:

"Wayne Morse for President."

And that's all. All right. Wayne Morse then is hereby entered in the 1960 Democratic presidential sweepstakes without further ado or comment. Whoever is sending out the cards can save himself and Summerfield's agents any further trouble at this address.

If this sort of promotion catches on it might help the postmaster general's deficit. For there would be a booming business if somebody started to send out postcards for all of the Democratic senators who are being mentioned for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Such promotion should not be encouraged—but nevertheless here are a few who are being listed:

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, former mayor of Philadelphia, a newcomer; Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, an old-timer; Albert Gore of Tennessee, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, an old hand in the presidential chase; John F. Kennedy, who got nosed out by Kefauver for the Democratic vice presidential nomination last year; Frank J. Lausche, five-term governor of Ohio; Stuart Symington of Missouri, a candidate for the nomination last year who never got off the ground.

And so on.

Without intending to be discouraging, it must be pointed out that the odds are much against a senator winning a presidential nomination of either party. Only rarely in our history has a sitting senator been nominated.

Governors seem to enjoy a preference for presidential nominations.

So it is wise to take a look at governors.

One who is beginning to be looked at is Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, who has just won renomination without a contest. He will enjoy a preferred position if he defeats the Republican nominee, Malcolm S. Forbes.

If reelected, Meyner would still be in office at the time of the 1960 Democratic national convention, which is helpful.

One Democratic governor of New Jersey did go from there to the White House—Woodrow Wilson. So there is a precedent. An Eisenhower is favored for the 1960 nomination, too. That's where Democrats have got to recoup if they hope to win the presidency in 1960.

Try Prayer For Holding To Husband

QUESTION: I find myself hating a certain woman because she is breaking up our home. She has no qualms about going out with my husband openly. How can I overcome my resentment? —S. R.

ANSWER: Your problem is a serious one, and on the human level, you could not be blamed for being resentful. That is only natural. But what you want to do first, is to save your home if you can. But even more important, you must not let this unfortunate experience ruin your life.

Resentment seldom, if ever, helps in a given situation. Have you tried praying for this woman and your husband? I dare say that if your husband came home one night and found your face bathed in tears; not tears of self pity, but tears of compassion for his soul, that it would make a tremendous impact on him.

Remember, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." I know of many homes that have been literally held together by the power of prayer, by the husband, or by the wife, or both. In your case, there is much more at stake than your home, though that is very important. The destiny of three souls hangs in the balance.

With so much at stake, you can afford to exercise every patience, and expend every effort, to restore love and understanding in your home. May God give you the grace and the wisdom to handle this situation in a way that will produce results, and an enduring happiness for all concerned.

A permit for construction of a $1,968,000 synagogue and Sunday school building for Ahavath Achim congregation was issued Friday.

Rev. McGaughey Will Retire Soon At College Park

The Rev. Toombs McGaughey will retire this month after 30 years as pastor of the Second Baptist Church of College Park.

Rev. McGaughey

The Rev. Mr. McGaughey is 71 years old. He was ordained to the ministry at Bethel Baptist Church in Walton County and served country churches in the Fairburn Assn. for seven years. In March of 1927 he accepted the call to the College Park church.

When the Rev. Mr. McGaughey took over the pulpit, the church counted only 55 Sunday school members and fewer than 100 on the church roll. The church contained a sanctuary and two Sunday school rooms.

Today the church has over 900 members, 1,200 enrolled in Sunday school and a completely remodeled and enlarged church with 100 Sunday school rooms.

150,000 Here Will Join First Mass Feeding Test

The first test of mass feeding during a mock emergency in the Atlanta area is scheduled during the civil defense school evacuation exercise April 29 or 30, Elliott R. Jackson, area civil defense director, said Friday.

Jackson said about 150,000 children are expected to take part in the exercise—but only part of these will be "fed" after they have been "evacuated."

He explained the mass feeding program is part of the emergency welfare service of civil defense.

"We will feed the children in six places," he said, "so that our methods and procedure can be tested."

COVERS 4 COUNTIES

Jackson said about 54,000 school children actually will be moved to evacuation points or railroad loading areas from their schools in Atlanta, Decatur, Marietta, and Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb and Clayton Counties. He said other participating children (including 75,000 in Atlanta) will go to "loading platforms" outside their schools and then return to their classes.

Exact time and date of the evacuation exercise will not be announced in advance, Jackson said.

More than 6,000 vehicles—including automobiles, trucks and buses—will be available for the evacuation, the civil defense director noted.

Atlanta area radio stations will give 30 minutes for relaying information and instructions during the exercise. The broadcast will originate from civil defense headquarters.

Jackson said small children will be "tagged" with their names and other identification in case they are lost during the test.

IGNORANCE FEARED

"I feel that not more than one-third of our people would know what to do during a civil defense emergency," Jackson said, "and that's one reason we're having this evacuation exercise."

He said many people don't know the warning signals. A steady sound on sirens for five minutes means "attack is probable—start evacuation." A rising and falling wailing sound on the sirens or short blasts on whistles for three minutes means "attack is imminent—take cover."

Jackson said civil defense preparedness also will be helpful if a tornado or other disaster should strike the Atlanta area.

Mayflower II Sails Today For Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, England, April 19 (UP)—Mayflower II has her hold full of cargo and is ready to start tomorrow on a history-repeating voyage.

The 180-ton sailing vessel, oaken replica of the ship in which the Pilgrim Fathers went to America in 1620, was at the starting line at last after delays in the building yard at Brixham.

She is about to sail from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass. The original Pilgrims needed 65 days to make the extremely hazardous journey to the West. The 32 men in the modern Mayflower, knowing much more about weather and currents than was known in 1620, think they can make the crossing in about six weeks.

With a few concessions to comfort, they will travel as their forefathers did—with sail only.

Want To Upholster? Make Slip Covers?

Sheriff Asks Again for New Jail Employes

Fulton County's commissioners had under study Friday a new request from Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes for more personnel to bolster security at the county jail.

Sheriff Grimes—whose previous requests have been denied — appealed to the commissioners to grant him four additional employes. This came after County Manager A. E. Fuller, following a conference with Superior Court judges, suggested that two men being used to transfer prisoners to Reidsville, and other court deputies, could be used at the jail.

Grimes and Chief Deputy Sheriff LeRoy N. Stynchcombe insisted that the two transfer men had to be kept available for other assignments.

Commissioners said they would go into the request further at their next meeting.

The commissioners also delayed action on an employes' union request for longer vacation periods with 15 and 25 years' service despite somewhat heated pressure from union representatives.

The union representatives, pointing out that the request had been hanging fire since last year, asked for action on it now. The commissioners emphasized, however, that the request—because of its effect on employes being off — would take a lot of analysis.

IN OUR CHURCHES: Dogwood Caught Radiance of New Life on First Easter

The Legend of the Dogwood is one of the most beautiful of the many stories which have come to be synonymous with the Easter season.

As the legend goes, in the days of Christ the dogwood was a large tree whose flowers, being one of the most durable types of wood available, the dogwood became the cross on which Christ was crucified.

The dogwood tree became anguished at this shameful duty that had been forced upon it. Its disgrace was so severe that the tree grew twisted and gnarled.

Then on Easter morning, lithe and slender in meekness, the dogwood tree caught the radiance of new life and flowerlessed hope when Christ arose from the grave.

Bursting forth with blossoms of joy, the tree bloomed and the blossom was formed from four delicate petals that shaped a cross. In the outer edge of each petal was a brown nail print. At the center was a crown of thorns.

Today, the dogwood blossoms at Easter time and is a symbol of all that Easter represents.

Crusade Wins 1,600

Atlanta Baptist Churches reported this week the addition of some 1,600 members to their rolls as a result of the simultaneous Crusade.

Reports from churches which have completed at least one week of revival services as of last Sunday indicate that 1,040 persons have been received through baptism and 561 through transfer of letter. An additional 1,950 have rededicated themselves, and 39 persons have made decisions for full-time service.

The simultaneous Crusade, which united 115 of the city's 144 white Baptist churches, has been going on most of this month and will continue with several more revival series during the next weeks.

The report reveals that an additional 17 persons have made professions of faith, but due to family religious affiliations have been advised to join a different denomination. Some 13 Boys High School students from Methodist families came forward during the revival at Inman Park Baptist Church.

Received into the Baptist churches have been several Catholics and one Mohammedan.

Officials hope that final reports will indicate some 200 additions to the church rolls.

Revivals Beginning

Revivals in several Atlanta churches will begin this Sunday.

An eight-day series to be led by Dr. Bryan Robinson of Plainview, Tex., will be held at the Virginia Avenue Baptist Church. Services will be held at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. each day.

The University Heights Methodist Church, a 14-month-old congregation, will hold its first revival beginning Sunday. The services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each night in the Methodist School auditorium. Dr. B. C. Gamble, evangelist, will lead the services.

West Manor Baptist Church will be led in revival by the Rev. Ed Shivers, pastor of Inman Park Baptist Church. Services will be held at 8 p.m. daily.

Chamblee Methodist will hold 8 p.m. daily revival services with the Rev. Charles Cochran, pastor Pittillo Memorial Methodist Church, preaching.

Here and There

Baptist women throughout Georgia will observe a Day of Prayer for Community Missions next Thursday. . . . Church membership during the past 20 years has increased at more than twice the rate of total population growth, reports Encyclopedia Britannica. The population growth in this period has been about 40 per cent, while churches have increased their rolls by about 94 per cent.

Holy Saturday To Be Marked Here With Special Services Scheduled

Holy Saturday will be marked with special services in many Atlanta churches.

At St. John Melkite Catholic Church, a low mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. with confession before and after. Communicants will fast from 12 midnight Friday until noon Saturday, and the first mass of Easter will be held at midnight Saturday night.

The Easter vigil of Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church will begin at 11 a.m. with a solemn high mass at midnight.

An 11 p.m. Saturday service of the Blessing of the New Fire, the Paschal Candle, the Reading of the Prophecies, the Blessing of the Baptismal Waters and the renewal of the Baptismal promises will be held at St. Thomas More Catholic Church in Decatur. This will be followed by a midnight mass.

Confession will be heard on Easter Eve, Saturday afternoon, at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour. During the evening the ancient Liturgy of Easter Eve, including the Blessing of the Paschal Candle, the Reading of the Prophecies and Renewal of Baptismal will be held.

Services of the Lighting of the Paschal Candle and Baptism will be held at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross.

A Stormy Laguna

It looks now as if Bill Thompson may turn Buck Riddle into an outfielder and start Austin shopping for another first baseman. The Cracker rookie was slated for delivery to the Texas League club when Riddle returned, but you can't ship a guy stroking .429.

Talkative Ted Williams reportedly rejected an offer of $25,000 to tell his story in a national magazine shortly before he popped off for free in New Orleans. . . . In case you haven't noticed, Little Rock isn't in the Southern Assn. this season. Ray Winder has changed the name of the club to Arkansas Travelers, but the loop's gazettes still list it Little Rock.

Gene Ellenson, former Georgia lineman who coaches the Miami line, reports the Hurricane is bigger and slower than last year's edition. . . . Whether Floyd Faucette plays halfback or quarterback at Tech next fall, the Brent, Ala., youngster is a solid bet to become one of the Jacket greats. A crowd of some 10,000 is expected to look in on Faucette and other yearlings in the T-Game next Friday night.

Art Guepe, the Vandy football boss, hails Mel Roach, the Cracker infielder, the "finest all-round athlete I ever coached." Roach played quarterback for Guepe at Virginia. . . . Bob Rush, who accomplished the amazing feat of winning 13 games for the Cubs last season, says he may bag 20 this year. "I now wear glasses and can see the catcher's signals for the first time," Rush explains. I'd say any guy who won 13 for the '56 Cubs shouldn't make any changes.

The Northside Jaycees, sponsoring the state junior tennis meet here in July for the third straight year, need a financial assist in sending the winners to the nationals in Santa Monica in August. Anyone interested in chipping in should contact Bubber Ezell (1994 North Hills Dr.). . . . Milwaukee Mgr. Fred Haney has benched himself this season, and stationed ex-Cracker Connie Ryan in the third-base coaching box.

—Reynolds Was Left But Not on Base

Bert Bell, the NFL football czar, demands that all TV and radio announcers shill for the house. Sponsors now submit three names, and Bell takes his choice. . . . Pity Hal Smith, the St. Louis Card catcher, who has to dig knuckle balls out of the dirt, when Murry Dickson, Jim Davis, Hoyt Wilhelm and Herm Wehmeier are working. . . . Tribe's Early Wynn is appropriately named, for he's the winningest hurler in the majors with 221 victories on the shelf.

Maybe it runs in the family, for Jim Webster, brother of New York Giant back Alex, was the leading ground-gainer in spring skirmishes at Marquette. . . . When someone mentioned Bobby Dodd was conducting a clinic for coaches, the Tech boss replied, "They'd better come now, for we'll probably be visiting their campuses from now on." More than 40 college and high school coaches have attended drills at The Flats. . . . About the only man the Crackers didn't leave on base in Nashville was Billy Reynolds, the ailing outfielder who was left at home. Reynolds reports his leg injury has mended, and he's eager to get back in harness.

Strictly from a standpoint of prestige, Byron Nelson lists the Open, Masters and PGA in that order. . . . All the Red Sox have to do to complete a sweep for Boston is win the A.L. pennant. The Bruins earned a Stanley Cup berth, and the Celtics dribbled to the NBA crown.

—Clary Can't Understand How the Ball Bounces

Cracker catcher Ted Laguna, a cinch to lead the Southern in conversation this season, says he sympathizes with sports writers. Last winter the sleepy-eyed Laguna, serving as sports editor of the Seton Hall College paper, blasted one of the basketball players, and the entire family told off Theodore. . . . They're toying with the idea of a new football stadium in Memphis, and everyone who has suffered through a game in Crump Stadium is hoping they'll build it. . . . Chuck Davey, who starred as a TV pug a few years ago, is now an insurance salesman in Detroit. Presumably he's a good one, ranking 25th among 2,800 agents in '56 sales.

Ellis Clary, the Washington Senator coach, says he can understand why players find it more difficult to hit in the majors. But fumbling rookies frustrate Clary, who claims a ground ball takes the same hops in Yankee Stadium that it does in Peoria or Valdosta. . . . My nomination for man of the decade in sports is Billy Wolfe, the wrestling impresario. He has been married to five lady wrestlers, including annual champ Mildred Burke and perennial contender Nell Stewart.

Now it can be told: The new Encyclopedia Britannica reports that 18,854,809 anglers spent $39,501,838 for fishing licenses, permits and stamps during the fiscal year ending in July, 1955. . . . Speaking of cash, one of the reasons the pros like to play in the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions is they receive $1,000 for entering. . . . More finances: total take in The Constitution-GHSA tournament last month was $17,124. Uncle Sam got $498.76, expenses totaled $3,492.18, participating schools hauled off $7,706.53 and the GHSA banked $5,426.53. . . . Invitations are now in the mail for the Southern Peach swimming meet at Callaway Pool in LaGrange on June 21. . . . And Capital City has selected April 27 as the date for its fishing rodeo. . . . Though it's none of my business, I keep getting letters and calls of protest from baseball customers who are taxed $2 for parking in Sears' lot on the nights the store is open. Why don't you write to Sears or Earl Mann? Better still, just don't park there.

Miley's Homer Stuns Crackers In 10th, 2-1

Grabowski Loses 3-Hitter

By AL THOMY
Constitution Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 19—Dick Grabowski made one bad pitch here Friday night, but that was enough to give Birmingham a 2-1 decision over Atlanta in a 10-inning game.

Sammy Miley, a left-handed swinger who haunted the Crackers in a Columbus (Ohio) uniform during spring training, took advantage of a gopher pitch to slam it far over the right-field fence for a two-run homer and the ball game. Grabowski had walked pinch-hitter Emil Karlik just seconds before Miley wrote finis to the thrilling duel of right-handers.

A turnout of 1,341, in addition to approximately 400 ladies who came out on their night, watched Jim Atkins and Grabowski match pitches for nine scoreless innings before the game suddenly developed into a gopher battle in the 10th.

It appeared Atkins had succumbed as he did earlier in Atlanta when Sammy Taylor struck a two-run homer in the bottom of ninth, after he threw his gopher in the top of the 10th.

This one came in the general direction of Buck Riddle, who rode it far over the left-field fence. Bill Thompson followed with a pass, but a double play and a strike-out by Chick King prevented further damage.

Then came the fatal bottom of the 10th.

Grabowski got Larry Osborne, who had doubled in the third, on a swinging third strike. Karlik batted for catcher Joe Tipton and worked Grabowski for a walk.

Miley, the ex-Mississippi Southern athlete making his first Birmingham appearance, stepped to the plate. Grabowski seemed to lose his touch for a moment on two inside pitches. He mixed a strike into the count.

Came the bad pitch, flush over the plate, and Miley sent it sailing over left.

A thoroughly dejected Grabowski and Atlanta club walked off the field. Heads bowed, they had lost the toughest kind of decision after a brilliant effort in the field. Grabowski, who now has a 0-2 record, struck out eight, the same number he had whiffed in his other losing game with Birmingham. Atkins fanned five, and had things under control until a mild uprising in the eighth and the damaging blow in the 10th.

Both teams changed their wayward ways of Thursday night when they freely arrived on base but failed to get over the punch that counts.

The Crackers were on the sacks in seven of the 10 innings, and actually muffed one golden opportunity, that in the eighth.

It all ended, though, when Dick Phillips skied to center, and Larry Osborne made a sensational, one-handed stab of Joe Morgan's hump-backed drive into right field.

The Barons assembled their most threatening gesture—prior to the home run, of course—in the bottom of the eighth.

Miley drew a pass, and shortstop Andy Frazier, breaking out of a slump, drilled a single to right. Atkins grounded to Thompson, and Grabowski fanned Dick Camilli on a high pitch, Camilli's second whiff.

Otherwise, there were no serious threats.

Morgan singled with two out in the first, King walked with two away in the third, Sammy Taylor punched out a one-baser with two gone in the fourth, Thompson walked in the fifth and Phillips was safe on a miscue in the sixth.

Miley had two of the four hits off Grabbo. Atkins permitted five.

The Crackers, now below the .500 level, go after the Barons again here Saturday night. Lefty Bob Hartman (1-0), who made a sensational debut at Nashville, is manager Buddy Bates' choice to oppose Gerry Davie (1-0), the left-hander who beat Atlanta, 5-4, April 13.

CRACKER DIARY: In three pinch-hitting appearances, versatile Jack O'Donnell has a double and a single. Prior to Friday night's game, the Cracker pinch hitters had been successful on four of six attempts. . . . Two Barons have been having their troubles at the dish. Veteran Tom Wright went 21 times before he struck a hit, and shortstop Andy Frazier is carrying an

THE RHUBARB SEASON

Berra Blasts 20-Second Rule; Ford Admits Swapping 'Books'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Opening fanfare out of the way, the major leagues settle down to serious baseball today with the trend of the 1957 season already solidly set.

The redhot advance favorites are off and running. Old pros are stealing the headlines from eager rookies. And rhubarbs—ahead of their spring schedule—are blossoming all over the place.

The world champion New York Yankees, who have been in seven of the last eight World Series and won six of them, carry an unbeaten 2-0 record into their second game with the Red Sox at Boston. The Chicago White Sox, hosts to Kansas City, are tied with the Yanks for the American League lead.

Over in the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, who are favored to battle it down to the wire for the pennant, are out in front with a similar 2-0 mark and 1.000 percentage.

Yogi Berra | Whitey Ford

Brooklyn is host to Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field and Milwaukee is at home with Cincinnati, rated the "dark horse" contender for honors in the elder circuit.

Milwaukee still is seething over charges by Birdie Tebbetts, Cincinnati manager, that the Braves' Lew Burdette is a "cheating spitballer." Cincinnati General Manager Gabe Paul has filed a formal protest with Warren Giles.

Meanwhile, there is an undercurrent of discontent over the new 20-second rule aimed at speeding up the game. The rule requires that a pitcher must get rid of the ball 20 seconds after he receives it and the batter cannot leave the box after the pitcher has become set.

Loudest cry against this rule was voiced by Yogi Berra of the Yankees,

"Somebody will get killed out there if umpires enforce those new speedup rules," fumed Yogi. "The hitter is chained to the plate. If a swirl of dust gets in his eyes or perspiration drips down his face or a gnat blinds him, he has to grit his teeth and take it."

The Yankees' Whitey Ford added to the season's turbulence—set fire earlier by Ted Williams' broadside blasts—when he disclosed that pitchers, alarmed over the "rabbit ball," were getting together and comparing "books" on the major league hitters. "It's to keep us from becoming extinct as a dodo," said Ford.

Mantle and Kaline Count Only 1 Hit Between 'Em

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Several established big league ballplayers, including Al Kaline, Mickey Mantle, Jimmy Piersall and Ken Boyer, undoubtedly would like to start the season over again. They got off on the wrong foot.

Detroit's Kaline, the American League's leading batter in 1955 and a .314 hitter last season, has failed to connect safely in 12 official times at bat.

Mantle, the AL's triple-crown champion, has only 1-for-6 at the plate, a double in his first time at bat. In the field, the Yankee center fielder dropped one fly ball for an error and misplayed another officially scored as a triple.

Piersall, the Red Sox' fleet outfielder, and Boyer, the St. Louis Cards' third baseman, each have failed to hit in seven tries.

Jim Finigan of the Tigers and Rip Repulski of the Philadelphia Phillies, both traded during the winter, also have failed to impress with their new clubs. Finigan is hitless in eight trips and Repulski has a lone safe blow in 10 times at bat.

The Tigers' Bill Tuttle, who manager Tighe says must improve his .253 average of 1956, is off to a slow start with an .083 mark on 1-for-12. Catchers Jim Heagan of Cleveland and Hal Smith of Kansas City each have nothing to show for nine at-bats.

Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox, the rookies of the year in 1956, also must be far from pleased with their showings. Robinson has two hits, both singles, in seven tries for .286 and Aparicio is two-for-eight for .250.

There have been some normal developments in the four-day-old campaign. .

GOLFING NOTES

North Texas Champs Return in Southern

By BERT PRATHER

The 20th Southern Intercollegiate golf championships, scheduled May 2-4 at Athens Country Club, could very easily be an all-Southwest show.

University of Georgia's Howell Hollis, director of this big college links event, announced Friday that in addition to North Texas State, defending team champion, the southwest will also be represented by such powerful teams as Oklahoma A&M, returning after an absence of several years; University of Houston; Lamar Tech and Texas Tech.

All these schools go in for golf in a big way and should have quite a bit to say about the titles.

Rex Baxter, Houston's No. 1 man who participated in the recent Augusta Masters, is considered one of the country's leading young amateurs. North Texas State, which sent such stars as Billy Maxwell, Don January and Marion Hiskey to Athens in past years, is reported well-heeled for its team title defense.

Dave Ragan won the individual crown last year for Florida but has since joined the professional tour.

The Southeastern Conference championship runs concurrently with the Southern; so, of course, all SEC schools together with Atlantic Coast Conference and such strong independents as University of Miami and FSU will be on hand.

Paul Lavin's Adams Park course will be site of the 1957 sectional qualifying for National Pubinx championship, it was announced by J. D. Croxton, United States Golf Assn. Public Links committeeman. The 36-hole qualifying, which determine Atlanta's representatives to the National at Hershey, Pa., is scheduled for July 8. All players entering the sectional must hold membership in Atlanta Publinx Golf Assn., according to Abe Massar, Atlanta Publinx prexy.

USGA Sectional Affairs Committeeman Keith Conway says East Lake Country Club's No. 1 course will be site of sectional qualifying for this year's U.S. Amateur championship. Qualifying date is Tuesday, Aug. 27. The lake course will be open for practice rounds Aug. 25 and 26, Conway said.

Pete Cole, Piedmont pro, heads Atlanta's entries in Rome's Alvin Everett Memorial Open scheduled for April 26 and 27 at Callier Springs Golf Club. Pete captured the tournament twice when it was decided at match play. Canadian Open champion Doug Sanders of Cedartown, was Cole's victim in his last title drive. Qualifying is in full swing and will continue through April 25 at 6 p.m.

Regular monthly tournament of Atlanta Senior Golf Association is booked for Saturday and Sunday at Paul Lavin's Adams Park Club. W. Davis Hamilton says it will be an 18-hole team dogfite deal and can be played either Saturday or Sunday.

BOBBY GEISSINGER SLIDES SAFELY INTO SECOND AGAINST GEORGIA
Jim Callaway Takes Throw Too Late To Prevent First Inning Gator Theft

Florida Errors Help Georgia to 5-4 Edge

Sophomore Southpaw Payne Rescues Bulldogs in Relief

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS, April 19—The skies and Florida's defense were leaky here Friday afternoon as sophomore pitcher Bob Payne rescued an important Southeastern Conference baseball victory for Georgia.

Coach Jim Whatley's Bulldogs mustered six timely hits to capitalize on seven Gator errors and win, 5-4.

Georgia carries a third-best 5-3 Eastern division record into Saturday's pair with the visitors, who had about 15 minutes of rain to go with their sunshine Friday. Florida stands 2-7 SEC-wise.

Right-hander Burt Touchberry, whose confusing curve beat Georgia a doubleheader last year, was the victim. However, he gave up only six hits and two earned runs, the same number he had allowed in 26⅓ previous frames. He had won three games.

It looked like Florida from the outset.

Right-hander Charlie Strain's first walk, throwing errors by third baseman Don Sparrow and shortstop Ray Allen, Jack Bailey's single and Dick Marlowe's sacrifice fly got the Gators off to a three-run first-inning start.

Three errors and Duane Grice's one-baser to left let Georgia draw blood in the second inning.

Another walk and singles off the bats of Russ Maxcy and Charles Rawlings sent Bobby Geissinger scampering home in the fourth with Florida's final run, and earned Strain an early shower.

With two aboard and none away, Lefty Payne, an Athens boy, put out the fire and tacked on five other scoreless rounds to gain his second victory against one defeat. He was the lone batter getting two hits, a double and single.

Payne struck out two, walked three, surrendered just three hits and let only one runner reach third. An error stationed Rawlings—who was replaced by a runner—on third.

After rain interrupted proceedings, Payne forced Charles King to bunt airborn into a double play, ending the threat.

Georgia won the game in the fourth.

Doubles by Payne and Billy Giles, singles by Wendell Tarleton and Jim Callaway and three Florida errors figured in the four-run uprising.

Despite 11 efforts in the game, the teams clicked off three double plays, two by the Gators.

Georgia collected its five runs and five of its six hits in two innings.

Coach Dave Fuller will start righthanders Bucky Williams and Bubba Williams—no relation—Saturday, and Whatley will counter with Billy Hearn, Wayne Minshew and Wiley Shepard. Starting time is 2 p.m.

Orleans Editor, Ted's Quoter, Faces Charges

NEW ORLEANS, April 19 (AP)—Crozet Duplantier, 25-year-old executive sports editor of the New Orleans States, was released today six hours after being charged with reckless operation of an auto and driving while intoxicated.

State Police Sgt. Leon Carrington and Lt. Vincent Ehrler reported Duplantier was weaving from one side of a state highway to the other and refused to stop for questioning. He was paroled to face the charges on May 3.

Duplantier touched off a brief flurry after his interview with Ted Williams here earlier this month. He quoted the Boston Red Sox slugger as having blasted, among others, the Marine Corps, former President Truman, and the U.S. government. Williams later denied that he criticized Truman, but admitted to most of Duplantier's story.

Tech Blues Dump Whites, 34-6, In Leather-Popping Scrimmage

Dodd Praises Baker's QB Play

By BERT PRATHER

Regardless of what may be lacking in some departments of the game, no one will be able to say the 1957 candidates for professor Bobby Dodd's Georgia Tech football team don't like to mix it.

These spirited candidates for the jobs left vacant by wholesale graduation of last season's Gator Bowl champions dearly love to pop that leather.

And they were popping it hot and heavy Friday afternoon at Grant Field as the Blues turned a rather even 14-6 game-type scrimmage into a 34-6 rout with three quick fourth-period touchdowns.

One of the hardest licks of the afternoon and, for that matter, one of the loudest on Grant Field in many a day was delivered by right halfback Calvin James who came up fast to mow down Lester Simerville, the driving fullback of the Whites, in the third period.

The two boys hit head-on and what surprised the coaches and the large turnout of fans most was both boys got up and acted as if it was just a lunch-tackling job.

Dodd said the teams were still making a lot of mistakes, particularly on defense but he believed this group will be the best downfield blocking club since the '51 team.

"They put a lot of those legendary men on the ground," the Tech headmaster said with a grin.

And another thing that pleased Dodd was the play of quarterback Jack Baker, particularly in the fourth period. The sophomore signal-caller looked good lugging the ball on one play and showed he can toss it, too, when he hurled one to halfback Tom Anderson for the final Blues' TD.

This play covered 73 yards.

Charlie Maynard, who shared the victorious quarterback duties, also had a good day pitching. Charlie, who spent most of the '56 season on the bench watching the deposed Toppy Vann and Wade Mitchell, direct the Jackets, was easily the big wheel for the Blues along with glue-fingered end Jerome Green.

Maynard got his first shot at the Whites from the White 28 when teammate Leon Tye bounced in from his right guard position and recovered a fumble on first play of the game.

After fullback Larry Fonts and halfback Floyd Faucett ran for three each, Maynard chunked to Green for a first on the 14. Then Faucette, on the outside belly play, scooted around the Whites' right terminal for the first TD.

James booted for the seventh point.

Late in the second quarter Jerry Nelson pulled [illegible] on the Blues' one but a touchdown was [illegible] by the SEC officials who were in "spring training," too, under the watchful eye of boss George Gardner. This brought the ball back to the Whites' 41 from where Nelson dropped back in punt formation again.

This time eight guard Bob Henderson [illegible] through and blocked the boot and end M. A. Dodds grabbed the bounding pigskin and lumbered in 21 yards for another TD. Anderson made the point good and the Blues went out at the half-time with a 14-0 lead.

The Whites finally broke through to escape a whitewashing late in the third. Tackle Don Denning recovered a fumble and the Whites were in business on the Blues' 15. Halfback James Brantley slashed for six. A five-yard penalty stopped the drive momentarily, but Simerville brought it back to the 11 just before another five-yard assessment following a successful Fred Braselton-to-Jack Rudolph pass placed the Whites back to 16.

This time Braselton dropped back to pass, found no receivers open and threaded his way across for his team's lone marker. Simerville missed the PAT.

Those fired-up Blues turned it into a rout in the fourth.

Starting on their own 41, the Blues moved it a quick 35 yards on Maynard's aerial to James. And then on a screen to James, the right halfback weaved his way a nifty 34 yards for the touchdown. When James added the point it was 21-6 Blues.

Before the Whites could recover, Maynard had chunked a beauty to Green for 47 and first down on the eight. The play worked so well, Maynard tried it again and Green grabbed it in the end zone. Anderson missed the PAT so it appeared the score would remain 27-6 Blues.

But Baker and Anderson got together for that long one and Anderson got the PAT to make it Blues 34, Whites six.

Fred Murphy, brilliant end prospect, suffered a painful ankle sprain and coach Dodd said he would be out for remainder of spring practice. There were others shaken up in the battle but they're expected to return to action.

The Jackets will get back to work Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and then take a two-day break before next Friday's big T-night game.

Now It's Blemker's 14-0 Shutout That Haunts Vol Tutor Lowery

Bud Blemker

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 19 (AP)—Georgia Tech engineered eight runs in the eighth inning today to shut out Tennessee, 14-0, in a Southeastern Conference baseball game.

Buddy Blemker, Tech pitcher, added insult by giving up only three Tennessee hits in going the distance. Rudy Trbovich, Vol righthander, allowed 16 hits in losing.

It was a bitter debut for Emmett Lowery, Vol basketball coach who is finishing out the season as baseball coach—since Blemker's last-gasp long shot beat the Vols in basketball in Atlanta last February.

The slaughter began mildly enough when Tech pushed across a lone run in the first inning. The eight-run eighth was aided by three Tennessee infield errors.

For Tech, which takes on the Vols again tomorrow in a doubleheader, it was the seventh victory against a single loss. Tennessee has a 2-7 record.

Blemker had visions of a no-hitter until Jack Weinstein lifted a blooper across third base with two out in the fifth inning. Doug Cornwell followed with a clean single to center, but the incipient rally succumbed when Jim Gitts grounded into a force play.

The other hit off Blemker, who struck out seven, was a single by Gene Simpson in the seventh.

Meanwhile, the Engineers teed off on Trbovich, who suffered from some faulty fielding by his mates.

Dave Ahern, Tech shortstop, drove in four runs and connected for the cycle with a double, homer, single and triple in that order. Right fielder Hank Moore also collected four hits and drove home three runs.

Tigers Comb Wildcats For 16 Hits, 12-6 Win

AUBURN, Ala., April 19—Shortstop Billy Ray Roberson, first baseman Lloyd Nix, and center fielder L. F. Lanier were the big guns for the Auburn Tigers, Friday afternoon, as they bombarded Kentucky left-hander Cookie Grawemeyer for 16 hits and a 12-6 victory in the opener of the three-game series in Plainsmen Park.

Roberson banged out a single, double, triple and sacrifice fly for five runs batted in. Nix connected for a double and a sacrifice fly to drive in three runs and Lanier, already the leading Auburn hitter, slapped out three for three and walked three times to raise his season's average to an even .500.

The losing Wildcats also were potent at bat with eleven hits—ten of them off Tiger starter Fred McDuffie, who went seven innings to pick up his third win of the season against one loss. McDuffie was tough with men on base, however, and allowed only three runs as he struck out four and walked three.

Grawemeyer went all the way on the mound to take his fourth loss of the season against a single win.

Kentucky's big hitters were El Kouns with a home run and a single, and Frank Brown with two singles for two runs batted in.

Sophomore Tommy Watts relieved McDuffie in the eighth for Auburn, but had control trouble which gave the losers their final two runs, and another soph. Richard Wood came in to strike out Bob Craven for the game's final out.

The win gave Auburn a 7th mark in the SEC and an overall record of 10-3. Kentucky is 2-7 both in the conference and in overall play. The two teams meet in a double-header Saturday afternoon in Plainsmen Park with the first game set to get underway at 11 p.m. (CST).

DENNIE McDUFFIE TALLIES WINNING RUN

Athens' Alton James Helpless to Stop Russell Ace

McDuffie Hit Sinks Athens for Russell

Beckham Pitches 5-Hitter; Griffin, Smith, Dalton Roll

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Dennie McDuffie, Russell High's long-silent big gun, boomed a fifth-inning triple that shot down the Athens Trojans Friday, 5-3, and left the Wildcats in sole possession of first place in the Region 4-AAA South baseball league.

McDuffie's sharp blast to deep right field scored Joel Bryant with the run that knotted the count at 3-3, and McDuffie streaked home with the lead run at South Park a moment later when Denzil Lynch rapped a single.

A walk to Knox Childers started the three-run rally that meant victory and a 4-0 won-lost record for Coach Larry Dodd's East Pointers. Bryant's single that scored through the center-fielder, rolled through the center-fielder preceded catcher McDuffie's clout, the clean-up batter's second hit of the season.

Jack Beckham, 6-5 junior right-hander who has an 8-0 regular season hurling record in two years, won his second of 1957 by limiting Athens to five singles, whiffing seven and issuing three walks. Athens, which won five straight before losing its last three, scored two first inning runs on singles by James Basham and David Parrish, a wild pitch, an error and starting hurler Doug Ross' sacrifice fly.

The Trojans got their final run in fourth on Pat Marshall's single, stolen base, an error and Billy Gambrell's bingle. Russell got one in the third on Childers' one baser, a passed ball and Dick Shelley's single. Walks to Lynch and Joe Doris, a balk and Larry Parker's sacrifice fly netted another in the fourth.

Ross fanned six Russellites in 4 1-3 innings, and reliefer Marshall struck out the side in the sixth; a feat Beckham had matched in the second. It marked the fourth time in four games that Russell has come from behind to win.

The Cats played without left fielder Robert Jennings, who was hit in the nose with a line drive Thursday, and shortstop Jerry Hudgins, on a trip to Florida. Third sacker Bryant and left fielder Kenneth Duren, each starting his first varsity game, played exceptional ball.

Griffin ran its overall record to 6-1, its region mark to 3-1, by shading Decatur in 10 innings, 8-7, after Chuck Kelley's two-run homer tied the score in the seventh. The winning run came as Brunel Thompson walked, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Chester Kent and tallied on Tommy Gregory's squeeze bunt.

Donald Pierce, who fanned nine and limited Decatur to seven hits, outduelled Bobby DeFoor. Billy Shirah rapped three hits, Gene Lewis and Jimmy Ballard two each for D. T. Smith's winners.

Nutting, Hendricks Set Marks

Atlanta Duo Tops Dixie Prep Meet

BIRMINGHAM, April 19 (AP)—Tuscaloosa High School spread-eagled the qualifying rounds of the Dixie Prep Relays here today, stepping to the front with victories in six events and qualifiers in two others.

Some 900 athletes representing teams in Alabama and Georgia went to the post, breaking three records and flirting with several others.

Ed Nutting of Atlanta's Northside hurled the shot put 53 feet, 11 inches, bettering his own mark of 50-11 last year.

Another Atlanta trackster, Steve Hendricks of Georgia Military Academy, established another new mark in the discus record book, with a throw of 151 feet, two inches. The old record of 142½ was set by Jerola Hawkins of Sylvan last year.

Two other discus tossers, Warren Gray of Lanier, and Bill Nance of Tuscaloosa, also bettered last season's mark. Gray spun the disc 148 4½ and Nance's throw measured 144.

In the only final event of the day, Tuscaloosa's distance medley team of John Keene, James Culwell, Richard Herman and Roger Criswell circled the two and one-half miles in 11:13.1 for a third new mark. West End of Birmingham held the old record of 11:16.8.

Tuscaloosa also had top qualifiers in Ingram Culwell (low and high hurdles), Van Allen (100-yard dash), 880-yard relay, Sterling Anders (high jump), 440-yard relay, Nance (discus) and the mile relay.

Carrollton, Ga., placed first in three qualifying heats—the sprint medley, 440-relay and 100-yard dash. Carrollton placed second in the 880 and low hurdles.

Georgia Military Academy placed entries in five events, although the school had only two qualifiers — Hendricks and Dennis Flandreau.

120 High Hurdles—First heat, 2, Renebee, Northside; third heat, 3, Smith, Bass. Ferebee qualified.

100—First heat, 2, Cooper, Bass, qualified; fourth heat, 1, Howard, Northside, qualified.

BILL WOODRUFF ADDED TO STAFF AT DECATUR

Decatur High has one new football coach in Bill Woodruff. And maybe it still has the same coaching staff it has had for several seasons—and maybe not.

Bill Woodruff

Woodruff, head coach at Bolles Academy in Jacksonville, Fla., was added to the staff Friday but has not been assigned specific duties.

Woodruff, native of Griffin, Ga., and brother of Georgia Tech defensive backfield coach Lewis Woodruff, was head baseball coach and line coach at Marist for two years, and served three seasons at Carrollton and two at Atlanta Roosevelt before that.

Decatur head Coach Frank Jones, reported as being named new head coach at Presbyterian College, said Friday that he has not been offered the job at all but will confer with Athletic Director Walter Johnson Saturday.

Jones emphasized that he had made no statements to the press regarding the job as it has not been offered to him. Regarding statements that he might take his entire Decatur staff to PC with him, Jones said, "It is utterly ridiculous assumption. Presbyterian, I am sure, would not okay that many assistants in event I do get the job."

It is expected that Clyde Ehrhardt, Decatur line coach for three years, will be offered the Decatur head coaching post in event Jones goes to Presbyterian. A reliable source informs that the job, if open, will be offered to a member of the current staff which also includes Charlie Hall, Butch Lee and Abe Palmer.—ROBERTS.

Don January Sets Record At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 19 (AP)—Free-swinging Don January, a young Texan with an aching back, slammed a 7-under-par 65 for a course record and the lead at the midway mark of the $40,000 Tournament of Champions today.

The 27-year-old professional from Lampasas, Texas, with a remarkable comeback from a dismal round of 78 yesterday, toured the sunswept Desert Inn Country Club course this warm afternoon in 32-33 for his 65 and a 36-hole total of 143.

Par for the test is 36-36—72, and January's 65 broke the course record of 66 which Art Wall Jr. set in winning this event in 1954.

January, who turned pro in May 1955, goes into tomorrow's third round with a 2-stroke lead over the field.

Tied at 143 were Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.; Billy Casper Jr., of Bonita, Calif., and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa. Demaret shot a 72, Casper 70 and Palmer 73.

Palmer and Ed Furgol led off as co-leaders from the first round. Furgol took a 77 for 149.

Gene Littler, who won the $10,000 top money here in 1955 and 1956, stayed in contention with his second straight 73 for 146.

ATLANTA'S FRANK WILLETT IS A GAME LOSER

He Fell Before Holmberg, 6-4, 6-4, at Bitsy Grant

Tulane Team Defeats Area Tennis Stars

Tulane University's perennial Southeastern Conference tennis champions stopped an all-star Atlanta group here Friday at the Bitsy Grant Tennis Center in an exhibition, 3-1.

The competition was curtailed to four matches because of injuries to the Greenies' defending SEC No. 1 single titlist, Jose (Pepe) Aguero, and No. 4 man Lester Sacks.

Most rugged duel of the day was a 2-6, 8-6, 6-3 decision Atlanta native Crawford Henry battled from that grand ol' guy of Atlanta tennis, Bitsy Grant. Grant carried the game to Henry in the early going, and forced numerous errors.

But Henry grew stronger as the match progressed. He finally wore down Grant and got a comparatively easy 6-3 win in the last set.

Davis Cupper Ron Holmberg, a transplanted Yankee from Brooklyn, N.Y., stopped Frank Willett with 6-4, 6-4 ease. And the team of Holmberg-Henry topped Willett and Howard McCall, 6-4, 6-4.

Lone Greenie defeat was suffered by Carl Goodman, who lost to Tom Bonner, 3-6, 9-7, 6-2.

Tulane moves to Athens Saturday for an SEC match with Georgia.

SINGLES

Ron Holmberg (T) def. Frank Willett (A), 6-4, 6-4. Crawford Henry (T) def. Bitsy Grant (A), 2-6, 8-6, 6-3. Tom Bonner (A) def. Carl Goodman (T), 3-6, 9-7, 6-2. Holmberg-Henry (T) def. Willett-Howard McCall (A), 6-4, 6-4.

Whitey Ries Serves Cardinals As Player, Coach, Interpreter

By PAUL ATKINSON

"He's our old pro . . . there's no doubt about it."

The speaker was Columbus Foxes' manager Skeeter Newsome, and the object of his words was third baseman Whitey Ries. Ries had turned in two sparkling defensive maneuvers that saved a 3-1 opening night Sally League victory over Macon.

Paul Atkinson

"Whitey's going to be an infield coach for us this season," Newsome continued. "Actually, he's a coach in more ways than fielding and hitting for the rest of the fellows on that infield.

"He's also our interpreter. You see the other three in the infield are from Mexico. There's Ed Escalante at first base, Ronnie Comacho at second and David Garcia at shortstop. They can speak English a little, but Whitey can calm 'em down in Spanish if they become excited."

Ries is not new to the baseball people of the immediate Columbus-Alabama area. He was skipper at Dothan (Ala.-Fla.) last season, and stroked a crisp .356 as playing mastermind.

The Dothan club folded this season, so the parent St. Louis Cardinals moved Ries to Columbus. His run-scoring single Thursday and that flashy fielding indicate the one-time New Orleans (Southern) Pel could be just the anchor that Columbus infield needs.

HOME IS WHERE YOU FIND IT DEPT.—Columbus infielder Tom McDevitt, the second baseman with Albany (Ga.-Fla.) in 1956, calls home "County Jail, Effingham, Ill." "My father is a jailer," he tells you. "I guess I've spent half of my life in jail." Ah, home, sweet home.

SHORT SERVES—That opening night attendance derby in the Sally League might go to Charlotte. The Hornets drew 5,644. Columbus pocketed gate receipts from 5,129. Savannah had 4,637. Secondary openers Saturday have Columbus at Macon, Columbia at Augusta, Charlotte at Knoxville and Savannah at Jacksonville. . . . Columbia fans, rained out of their opener Thursday, got an unusual opening-night double-header Friday. . . . That Magi—Vince, by name—won Charlotte's opener, socking a double that got an 8-7 decision over Knoxville Thursday.

Mims Loses To Beecham

MIAMI, BEACH, Fla., April 19 (AP)—Jimmy Beecham, an eager youngster from Miami trying to climb in the ring ratings, grabbed himself a fistful of prestige tonight as he pounded his way to a close decision over the veteran Holly Mims of Washington, D.C.

Taking the best shots that Mims could throw, the 22-year-old Beecham scored strongly with brisk counter punches in a match so filled with action that the crowd of 2,069 stood up and cheered at the end.

Bold Ruler Steps Out In Final Pre-Derby Spin

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Two old Eastern Kentucky Derby previews, the Wood Memorial and the Chesapeake Stakes, will be the main attractions today at New York's Jamaica race track and Luaruel Park, Md.

The $50,000-added Wood, over the mile and one-eighth distance, holds the edge in importance as the Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler makes his final start before the $125,000-added Derby May 4. After Bold Ruler won the Flamingo at Hialeah March 2, beating Gen. Duke, he was labeled the early Derby favorite.

When Gen. Duke beat Bold Ruler March 30 in the Florida Derby, that Calumet colt moved into the favorite's role.

Bold Ruler has six opponents and they could be tough for the Wheatley star. Among them are John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive, winner of the Gotham last week, and the Bohemia Stable's Ambehaving, winner over Bold Ruler and others last fall in the Remsen at Jamaica. Six of the seven entered for the Wood, which in the past has produced six Kentucky Derby winners, are eligible for the Louisville gallop. The Wood goes on TV and Radio, CBS, with post time about 4:53 p.m., EST.

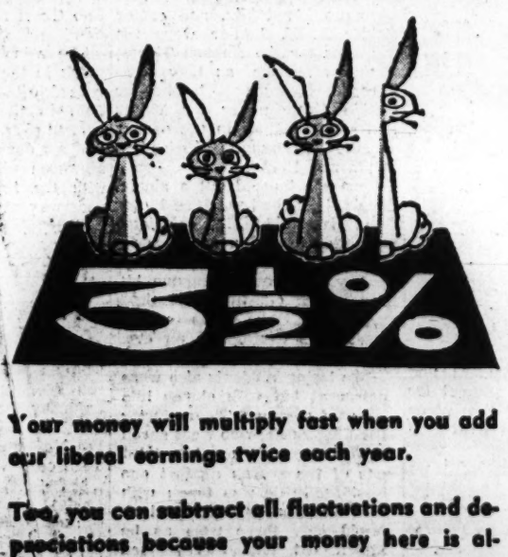

Fifteen 3-year-olds were entered for the $20,000-added Chesapeake at Laurel, but only five are eligible for the Kentucky classic.

Aldermanic Committee Clears Police Department in Clark Shift

them if Chief Herbert Jenkins would resign.

Jenkins said he would not resign.

McAuliffe said that to protect the policemen, he could not name them.

The hearing was called to air charges that former patrolman Ronnie M. Clark was transferred off a beat after alleged lottery kingpin Horace Ingram threatened to have him moved.

Committee counsel Henry Bowden said Ingram had been asked to appear at the hearing, but added Ingram's attorney had said he could not answer questions on the grounds they might tend to incriminate him.

Testimony established that Clark and his partner, R. T. Appling, were moved two days after they charged Ingram made the threat.

Chief Jenkins testified he assumed that the officers were moved after Ingram threatened them, but he said it was just a "regrettable coincidence."

MAYOR LASHES OUT

Hartsfield erupted into a line of sharp questions and comments while Clark and McAuliffe were on the witness stand.

At one point Hartsfield called McAuliffe a coward and declared he was a "disgrace" to law enforcement. He said Criminal Court Sol. John I. Kelley ought to be ashamed to have McAuliffe in his office.

Kelley, who had been invited to attend the hearing, stood up and admonished the mayor against browbeating McAuliffe and asked Hartsfield to "quit shouting" and "drowning out" McAullife's testimony.

Attorney Charlie Edwards, who represented Clark, interrupted Hartsfield once and accused him of "brow-beating" the young ex-officer who now is a private detective.

The mayor, red with anger, shouted that Clark had "made an ass of himself" and that McAuliffe had "jumped into the breach" after Clark left the stand.

'BROW-BEATING'

Edwards, who put Chief Jenkins and several superior officers through rigid cross-examination, advised Clark not to answer any more questions because the mayor was "brow-beating" him.

While Clark was on the stand, the mayor questioned his ability as an officer. He insisted a number of times that Clark name some of the policemen who had told Clark that he had better "lay off" Ingram because Ingram was powerful.

Clark replied that it was common knowledge several policemen had made the statement to him but that he could not remember any names.

Hartsfield asked if Clark was charging that any member of the police department had him transferred because of Ingram. Clark said he was not charging anyone, and never had, but that he was simply stating facts. It was up to the committee, he continued, to reach a conclusion.

WOOD ACCUSED

Hartsfield also lit into Ald. Douglas Wood, who sponsored the resolution to hold the hearings, and accused Wood of trying to help Edwards represent Clark.

Wood replied that he resented Hartsfield's charge and said he was only interested in getting at the facts of the case.

Ald. Jesse Draper, a committee member, also rapped McAuliffe during the assistant solicitor's testimony, remarking that he was an "admitted crook." Draper also said McAuliffe "swore to a lie" and the alderman turned to Harry Bowden, associate city attorney, and said, "indict him."

McAuliffe also testified that the two investigators in Sol. Kelley's office had raided more lottery headquarters than the entire Atlanta police force in the past three or four years. And he said that the 12 state revenue agents assigned to Fulton County caught more illegal liquor than the entire city police force.

Staff Photo—Bill Warren

"WAS GOOD OFFICER"

Ald. Douglas Wood

Clark and Appling both testified that they were moved off their beat two days after Ingram told them he "had more power and politics" than they.

They said Ingram made the threat shortly after they arrested his son on a speeding charge and that he told them he would "bet" them $1,000 he could have them moved. Clark said that Ingram threw a roll of bills on the hood of the police car when he made the statement.

They testified the threat was made when they went to a service station across the street from Ingram's Garage to answer an "information" signal on the police radio.

Det. E. H. Scott   Sgt. Jack Cain

Clark testified he turned over to Atlanta detectives a lot of detailed information about lottery activities, but that as far as he knew the detectives did little investigating on the information.

CALLED INACURATE

(Earlier, Detective E. H. Scott testified that this information was investigated but that it was inaccurate. In answer to a question by Charlie Edwards, Scott acknowledged that his name and his unlisted telephone number were on a card found in Horace Ingram's pocket when county and federal agents raided the garage on March 27. Scott said that the telephone number could be obtained merely by calling the police department.)

Clark testified that the information he gave the detectives had been checked by federal intelligence agents and that they found the information accurate and useful.

McAuliffe also testified that Sol. Kelley's investigators found the information accurate and helpful.

PROVE HEROISM

In cross-examination, Edwards brought out that the police committee had given Clark a letter of commendation for saving a man's life, that Clark and his partner had a record of arresting many traffic violators, and that one of the testifying officers had personally recommended that Clark be promoted to the detective bureau. One of the superior officers also acknowledged that Clark was "diligent" in enforcing the law.

Appling also testified that his car had been "vandalized" several times and that he suspected lottery elements were responsible. He said he had made reports of the vandalism, but that only once had a detective talked to him about investigating the reports.

CHARGES VANDALISM

And Clark said a brick had been thrown through the back door of his house.

Chief Jenkins said he had heard something about the acts of vandalism and that he also had been apprised of Clark's report about Ingram's threat to have him transferred.

Jenkins said he investigated by calling for the police record on Ingram and by calling for the records of arrests made by Clark and Appling. He said that upon finding Ingram had a minor record which did not include lottery charges and upon finding Clark had made no arrests on lottery charges, he concluded there was nothing significant about Clark's report.

The chief said it was not "unusual" for people to tell policemen they were going to have them moved.

Jenkins and several superior officers testified that Clark was temperamental and was an "eager beaver." They said that in their opinion he was not "temperamentally suited" to be a police officer.

Jenkins and the officers swore they did not know Horace Ingram and that they had never been in communication with him.

The chief acknowledged, under cross-examination by Edwards, that when Clark resigned he (Jenkins) approved a permit for Clark to be a private detective.

He denied Clark's earlier testimony that Clark resigned on the condition that the chief would approve the permit.

RESIGNATION ASKED

Clark had testified that soon after he publicly told of Ingram's threat, Jenkins called him in and told him he had become a "controversy" and was no longer of any use as a policeman. He said Jenkins told him he would get him a job in the fire department or in some other city department if he would resign.

Clark said Jenkins told him it was a matter of resigning or being fired. He said he told Jenkins he would resign if the chief would promise to approve the private detective's permit. He said Jenkins promised.

Jenkins and other superior officers testified they had received several complaints about Clark's conduct as an officer, that they were told he was not always courteous.

Clark testified that while he had not been able to make any lottery charges against people who stayed around Ingram's Garage, he had arrested some of them on traffic violations.

And Clark testified that a large number of men with lottery records and other lottery figures made a habit of hanging around Ingram's Garage.

Earlier, Detective Scott, who had said he had no information about lottery in Ingram's Garage, said he put a surveillance on the garage last November. But he said he discontinued the observation after 30 minutes, indicating this was done because he had been detected in the surveillance.

Throughout the hearing, Edwards declared that Jenkins and other superior officers who testified had conferred about the case before attending the hearing.

Cross-examination revealed that Henry Bowden, who served as committee counsel, and Ald. Ed Gilliam, committee chairman, were present for a conference among officers who were scheduled to testify before the committee.

Except for McAuliffe, all witnesses who testified were either subpoenaed by Bowden or requested by him to be at the hearing.

Others who testified included Capt. R. C. [illegible], Capt. Melvin L. Thomas, Sgt. Jack Cain, patrolman Turner Wallace and city comptroller Earl Landers.

Capt. Thomas testified he personally transferred Clark and that the move was "routine."

Court Lifts Veterans Cab Receivership

A federal court order has lifted a receivership from the Veterans Cab Co. of Atlanta and returned the company to its stockholders.

A temporary receivership for the company was set up after Mrs. Edmond Landon Siegrist of Miami Shores, Fla., filed a petition in January asking that the company be declared bankrupt.

Judge Frank Hooper dismissed the bankruptcy proceedings following a new petition from creditors requesting that the original petition be withdrawn. Mrs. Siegrist was among the petitioners signing the second prayer.

Robert E. Flournoy, Atlanta attorney, had been named to operate the company pending outcome of the case.

Mrs. Siegrist had been awarded a $108,000 judgment against Veterans Cabs following the death of her husband who had been struck by one of the taxis operated by the company.

IMPERIAL WINS
SWEEPSTAKES VICTORY WITH AVERAGE OF 64.51 TON-MILES PER GALLON
TOPS ALL CARS IN MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN!

Sweepstakes winner and Class D Champion: The Imperial Crown, driven by Mel Alsbury, Jr. Ton-miles per gallon average 64.51. Mrs. Mel Alsbury topped all women drivers with 61.75 ton-miles per gallon, also in a 1957 Imperial Crown.

SUN VALLEY, IDAHO—April 18, 1957—A 1957 Imperial automobile has just been announced as the winner of the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run Sweepstakes, repeating last year's outstanding victory.

As the big winner swept over the finish line, first for the second straight year, the Imperial established itself as the most efficient car in America.

Imperial's first-place honors in the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run were awarded by officials of the United States Automobile Club, which sanctioned the event.

In topping the performance of all other U.S. automobiles entered, the Imperial traveled the tortuous route from Los Angeles to Sun Valley at elevations ranging from 200 feet below sea level to 7,382 feet above sea level. This exacting test of Imperial's unsurpassed power plant included more variations in driving conditions than the average motorist encounters in a year of hard driving.

The Imperial is a luxury car, and has behind it this year the industry's most dramatic record of sales success. Its Sweepstakes victory for the second successive year proves it also a performance champion, a car that for all its distinction and beauty has a proved record of power efficiency and economy of operation.

CAMERA RIGGED FOR OPERATION TELECAST

Taylor Lumpkin Checks the Performance of Unique Equipment

Cancer Surgery Wednesday To Be Telecast by WSB-TV

The second live telecast of a cancer operation in Atlanta will be carried on WSB-Television Wednesday starting at 8 p.m. The special telecast was scheduled Friday. The name of the patient will remain secret, as will the names of the doctors who will perform the operation.

A special camera, equipped with an ingeniously rigged mirror, will be used in televising the operation. The gadget was designed by Henry White, chief engineer for WSB-TV. Paul Sparberry, TV camerman, and Frank Cantrell, maintenance engineer, built it.

The special rig enables the camera to move within three feet of the operating table and to "shoot" between the heads of the doctors and nurses and the giant flood light which hangs from the ceiling.

The equipment, as well as the production crew—Producer Taylor Lumpkin and Cameramen Roy Cannaday and Sprayberry—will be protected by sterile covers, masks and gowns.

This program is another in a series of special service and educational programs presented by Channel 2. It is timed to coincide with the current Cancer Drive.

Resentencing Of Krulls Set Here Friday

A Federal judge here Friday scheduled resentencing for George and Michael Krull, convicted of the kidnap-rape of a 53-year-old Chattanooga woman, for next Friday.

U.S. District Judge Frank Hooper will resentence the brothers at 9:30 a.m. Friday. The U.S. Supreme Court in March refused to rehear the case.

The two men originally were sentenced to death.

Asst. U.S. District Atty. Robert Sparks, who conducted the government's prosecution, said the government had asked for the death penalty in the original trial in February, 1956, and "nothing has happened since then to make us change our minds."

A Court of Appeals ordered the pair resentenced, but upheld the verdict of guilty. The resentencing was ordered because the lower court erred, the appellate court said, in charging the jury to set the penalty. It ruled resentencing would be necessary "without regard to the jury's recommendation."

Following the appellate court's refusal to throw out the guilty verdict, attorneys for the Krulls took the case to the Supreme Court. The high court, however, refused to review the case.

The brothers are being held in the U.S. Penitentiary here.

8 Teens Admit 8 Burglaries and Tire Slashings

Eight Negro teen-agers, including a 16-year-old girl, have admitted eight burglaries and participating in a series of tire slashings, police said.

Seven of the Negroes are juveniles, Detectives S. E. Smith and P. T. Giles reported. Also arrested Friday was Willie B. Foust, 19, of a Hunt street, NE, address, charged with disorderly conduct-burglary, detectives said.

Two of the group, including the girl, confessed to slashing about 20 or 25 tires in the Tumlin, Tifton and Wallace streets, NW, area, officers said.

Fork Lift Topples On Smyrna Man; Injuries Severe

A Smyrna man was critically injured Friday when a fork lift fell on him at a warehouse at 1033 Jefferson St., NW, police said.

Taken to Crawford Long Hospital for possible internal injuries, a possible broken back and head and shoulder injuries, he was identified as Gordon Bixler, 38, of 282 Wayland Circle, Smyrna.

Patrolmen R. L. Rhodes and C. F. Giles said they were told Bixler was moving one fork lift with another machine when the lift slipped and fell on him from about 10 feet above.

Smith FHA 'Adopts' 2 Children

The Easter bunny came early for an 11-year-old Atlanta boy and his 5-year-old sister.

The Junior FHA Chapter at Smith High School "adopted" the two youngsters for a special Easter project. The girls donated funds with which to outfit the children. They bought shirt, pants and bow tie for the boy, while a more personal touch was added to the little girl's gift.

Junior FHA'ers selected a pattern, material and trimming, then made the full-skirted pastel dress in their sewing class. A committee delivered the gifts to the youngsters Friday.

"We met the children Christmas when we delivered a basket of food to the family as part of our Yule service project," explained Mary King, president of the organization. "We think they are adorable, and hope to be able to do something else for them soon."

Other officers of the chapter include Anita Ginn, vice president; Evelyn Shaw, secretary; Monte McKenzie, treasurer.

The award was presented at the recent state convention at Rock Eagle Park near Eatonton.

Fulton Seniors Discard Dignity

A Fulton High senior, sans dignity and wearing an expression of bewilderment, trooped from the school auditorium and asked wearily of all in earshot:

"How do children ever live long enough to grow up? I'm pooped!"

Numerous fellow classmates echoed his sentiments as they marched from the assembly that climaxed their annual Kids Day.

Boys dressed in short pants and Buster Brown bows vied with those who came as 6-year-old sailors, clutching stuffed animal toys in lieu of textbooks. Glamour girls donned frilly, ruffled skirts that reached just above the knees, pantaloons and pinafores to romp throughout the day.

A special guest for the festivities was Officer Don, who took time out from recruiting for WSB-TV's Clubhouse Gang to join students in the "Hokey Pokey" and "Mexican Hat Dance" to highlight the program. Officer Don awarded prizes for the best costumes to Delores Rudis, Patty Ogle, Jimmy Daniel and Jerry Busha. Nita Atkinson's costume was awarded first prize as the cutest dress among the girls, while Harry Jackson walked away winner of the cutest costume for the boys.

At the talent show, Winette Towery won first place honors for individuals, while the prize for best group entertainment went to five senior girls: Jo Anne Bell, Janice Cowan, Trudy Butler, Carole Winn and Sandra Fambro.

'Our Hearts Were Young and Gay'

Students who will star in the play include Becky Brown, Carolyn Hartley, Nina Jo Tarver, Gail Moon, Barbara Hill, Connie Vincent, Bill Rogers, Pam White, Lamar Cannon, Tommy Roddy, Clyde Holland, Johnny Mullinax, Johnny Morris, Patsy Gentle, Patsy Moore, Bob Croker, Linda Tucker and Nancy Fielder.

Crosby's Son Dennis Sounds Off On Music, Dances, Dad's Tunes

By BETTY CARROLLTON

The tow-headed son of America's best-known warbler took time out from watching a baseball game at Ponce de Leon Park to sound off on the subject of music.

Dennis Crosby, husky 22-year-old son of crooner Bing Crosby, is the only non-singing member of the famous clan, but music has been a big part of his life.

"I like pop music," he declared, with a cautious glance at his dad, who was slouched in a chair beside comedian Phil Harris. The "Groaner" appeared far more interested in the ball game—and swapping quips with Harris—than in his son's comments, so Dennis continued.

SINATRA FAN

"I'm a real Sinatra fan. Of course, I think Dad's pretty good, too.

"I wouldn't want to get into trouble," he grinned.

Of all the Crosby discs, Dennis prefers the "music for swinging tunes."

As for rock 'n' roll, which he termed a "different phase of music," the freckled, blue-eyed young man said he "can take it or leave it alone."

Home just two months from Germany, where he served with the Army, Dennis hasn't had time "to see much of the new dance steps."

"I'm not a good dancer, anyway," he insisted.

'ATLANTA STYLE'

Dennis was introduced to "jitterbugging, Atlanta style" by one of his overseas buddies.

"His name is Sam Hay, and he can really dance!" the youth praised. "I've tried to get in touch with Sam here, but haven't been able to locate him."

Dennis will resume his studies at Washington State College in September, where he plans to major in animal husbandry.

Teen-age discovery Darlene Gillespie will soon be featured in a disc production labeled "Darlene of the Teens." Three of her new EPs are available now, spotlighting "Come Go With Me," "Rock-a-Billy," "99 Ways," "Sittin' in the Balcony," "Butterfly," "Too Much," "Love Me Tender," and others.

Fats Domino's newest competitor for the "I'm Walkin' " sales is young Ricky Nelson, star of ABC-TV's "Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet." Ricky introduced singing talents with "I'm Walkin' " on a recent episode of the family series, and now he's waxed it, with "Teen-Agers' Romance" on the flip side.

However, Fats' fans are expected to greet with enthusiasm his new EP, "Here Comes Fats," featuring "The Rooster Song," "My Happiness," "As Time Goes By," and "Hey La Bas."

Teresa Brewer's "Empty Arms" is skyrocketing. . . . Chuck Berry is still ringing the bell with "School Day," while Randy Starr's original version of "After School" is meriting all "A's." . . . Andy Williams' "Butterfly" is netting lots of plays.

Mickey and Sylvia's "Love Is Strange" is heard even more often than their new "There Oughta Be a Law." . . . The Diamonds are scratching at the top tune list with "Little Darlin'." . . . The Dell-Vikings entreat "Come Go With Me" in their march toward the top, while local listeners are giving a big push to the Coasters' "Searching."

Perry Como's "Round and Round" is THE pop tune and "Why, Baby, Why?" as asked by Pat Boone, is getting a big share of spins.

Rosemary Clooney's sensational new disc rates a top spot in the harvest of hits. "Mangos" features Rosemary's interpretation of a calypso tune, with the melodious "Independent" from the Broadway hit, "Bells Are Ringing," on the flip side.

Atlanta fans of Little Richard, who helped put his singles and new album on best-seller charts week after week, will dance to the music of the explosive stylist here April 24. Little Richard heads the list of rhythm and blues artists who will furnish music for the dance planned Wednesday from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. at the Rhythm Ranch, in answer to teen-agers' appeal. Soft drinks and hot dogs will be served.

Teen-Agers Give Tips on Date Talk

Teen-age date talk ranges from school activities to movies and popular songs, with a few complimentary phrases thrown in for good measure.

In dozens of letters to The Constitution, young people gave out freely with tips for good conversational topics for that first date with a particular boy or girl.

Janice Elrod, 16, Demorest, an 11th grade student at North Habersham High School, wrote the $10 winning letter on this subject. She pointed out that:

Many teen-agers are confronted with the problem of what to say to a boy or girl they are dating for the first time. I'm sure that we have all heard the familiar question: "What shall we talk about?

The ability to carry on a sensible and yet interesting conversation seems to be one of the drawbacks of teen-agers today. This can turn into a difficult problem, especially for a very shy person. A most enriching and wholesome evening can so quickly turn into a nightmare if the conversation becomes a tiring monologue!

I suggest that first you try to find your date's interests. Almost everyone is enthusiastic about something. Such simple questions as: "Do you like sports?" "What vocations interest you?" "What type of music do you prefer?" "What do you think about . . . ?" can lead to an enjoyable evening. After all, what is dating but a way of life in which we learn to associate with others and respect their opinions?

But, above all, remember that the best trait of a good conversationalist is that of being a good listener also! Everyone admires this type of person.

Conversation is an important requirement for getting ahead in the world, and there is no better place to practice it than with other teen-agers.

Talking about different activities they participate in, such as clubs, sports and church programs, is suggested by 16-year-old Mailon Kent Jr., 10th grade student at Lanett High School, Lanett, Ala. Mailon also thinks each should find out the other's hobby, and be a good listener.

Kathleen Griesemer, Atlanta, 16-year-old 10th grader at Northside High wrote:

Since the purposes of dating are to become better acquainted with your date and to enjoy the time spent together, the conversation ought to fit these two purposes, and, especially on the first date, should be kept light, pleasant, interesting, and not too personal.

Many first dates have gotten off to bad starts because the importance of making an impression ruled over the conversation. Family prestige and financial status just don't make good conversation, and label you as a bore and snob. Bragging and showing off don't give people a good impression at all.

W. F. Carmichael Jr., 18, L. J. Price senior, believes that on dates an atmosphere of excitement should exist. This atmosphere can be produced by cheerfulness through conversation: An exciting event of the past, or through the media of imagination.

Harrison Alley, 16, Clarkesville, North Habersham senior, wrote: Be yourself.

Harrison added a word of caution:

Sylvan Students Elect Officers For Next Year

Larry Owen has been elected president of the Sylvan High student body for next year, with Emily England serving as vice president. Other officers include Pat Thomas, secretary, and Pat Bernheart, treasurer.

Larry has also been elected treasurer of the Atlanta Council of High School Presidents.

Class officers for next year are headed by Jim Ward as president of the senior class, with John Nichols as vice president.

Junior class officers include Ed Strickland, president; Don Davis, vice president; Ann Wilson, secretary, and Sandra Eubanks, treasurer.

Janice Smith will succeed Elizabeth Sessions as president of Sylvan's Co-ed Hi-Y, and Jimmy Pearson will follow Donald Chapman as Junior Civitan president.

Marily Stuart will head Sylvan's FHA chapter, and Patsy McGee will succeed Dot Eubanks as president of the school bank.

Elvis on Way Out? Cash Offered for Views

Is Elvis on the way out?

If so, who's the best bet to replace him as the teen-agers' favorite singer? What do YOU think? Why?

The Constitution will pay $10 to the high school student who writes the best letter on this subject. Cash awards of $1 will be paid for each additional letter used.

Letters must not exceed 200 words, and must be postmarked by midnight, Tuesday, April 23. Address entries to Young Ideas Editor, Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Include name, address, age, school and grade.

Cupid Had To Come to Atlanta To 'Shoot' French Girl and Swiss

By YOLANDE GWIN

Miss Monique Marie of Paris, France, and Pierre Fries of Zurich, Switzerland, are going to be married in Paris this summer, probably in August.

They are going to live in the south of France, and already say they want a white house that reminds them of Georgia.

The couple will have a lot to tell the folks back home because both Monique and Pierre are in Georgia now.

CUPID HAD TO CHASE

Dan Cupid, that sly little matchmaker, had to chase them all across the Atlantic before aiming his bow and arrow.

Miss Marie is a student at LaGrange College on a scholarship sponsored by Rotary International, and Mr. Fries is taking his Masters degree in architecture at Georgia Tech on a scholarship provided by the YMCA.

Last fall when the Atlanta members of the Alliance Francaise gathered for one of their regular meetings (everybody speaks French, even the native Atlantans) a French play was presented. One of the actors was Mr. Fries. One of the visitors was Miss Marie. Another one was Dan Cupid. Operation Romance was completed.

The other afternoon Miss Marie and Mr. Fries announced their engagement to a group of the international set in Atlanta at a party given in their honor by Michael Hack, the Swiss consular agent, and Mrs. Hack at their home on St. Charles avenue.

U.N. GATHERING

It was like a local United Nations gathering, for there were men and women students there from just everywhere you could mention.

The Hacks had the Swiss flags interspersed with colorful flowers on one table, while on another table was the French flag arranged in the same way. Tiny flags of other nations fluttered on the buffet table.

The pretty brunette bride-elect went to the Sorbonne in Paris and is majoring in English here in Georgia.

"WE LOVE HER"

"We love her at school," said a trim little Chinese girl named Margaret Chang of Hong Kong, a classmate at LaGrange College. Miss Chang was wearing a cream-colored Oriental-style sheath. "She loves to study furniture periods and I know her home in Paris will have beautiful pieces. She is much fun and enters into all school activities."

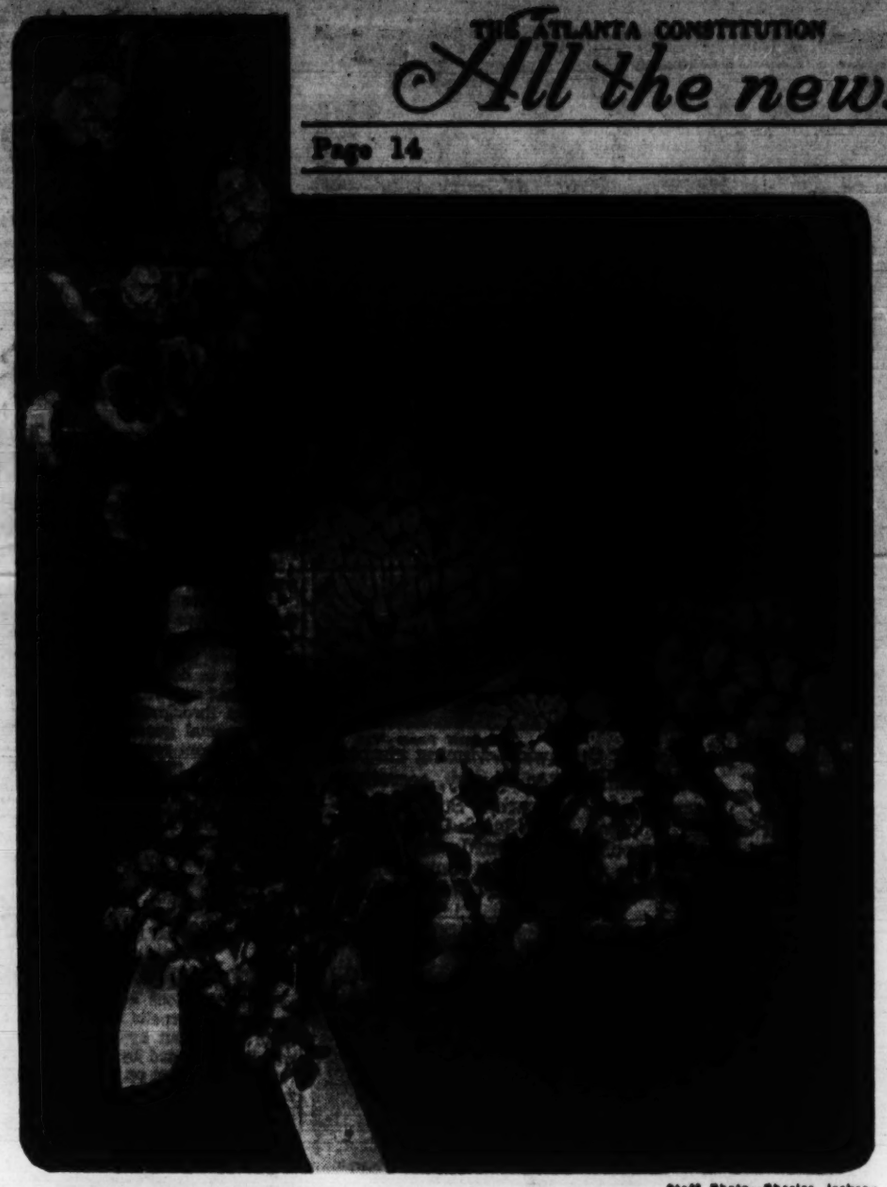

And here's what Dave Way of New Jersey, the bridegroom-elect's roommate at Tech, said:

"Pierre is a great tennis player, but he'd be the last one to tell you. And he likes to collect records, and our room is stacked with them. But I like 'em, too!"

WITH THREE DAYS' time and $1.75 worth of trimmings, Atlantan Roy Coker has created what hat designers spend months trying to fashion—an Easter bonnet that will be a parade stopper. Margaret Barineau poses in it, but Mary Whitworth, Mr. Coker's co-worker, will be the lucky (?) one to wear it in the Easter Parade. This will be her sixth Croker creation.

Dinklers Planning 3 Parties in One

By MARGARET McLEMORE

Fun for some 300 of the young social set takes place this afternoon when Mrs. Carling Dinkler Jr. gives a combination party for her three children, Derek, Carling III and Gayonne. Gayonne has just arrived home from Academy of Mount St. Vincent, Tuxedo Park, N.Y., to spend Easter vacation with her parents.

Bill Hornsby and Derek will be hosts for the Easter egg hunt for the children 9 and 10 years old, which begins at 4:30 today at the Valley road home of the Dinklers.

The treasure hunt for 13-year-old Carling III and Cy Hornsby starts at the same time and so does the treasure hunt for Gayonne and 100 of her high school friends.

The high school set is anticipating the treasure hunt. The final prize will be to lead the band, composed of Tech students, which will play dance music for the teen-agers. The dance terrace in the spacious back yard of the Dinklers was finished just in time for this event.

An outdoor buffet supper will be served. The Dinklers will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Marks Jr. of Augusta (Mrs. Marks is Mrs. Dinkler's sister) and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hornsby.

ATLANTANS ABOARD the Cristoforo Columbo which leaves today from New York for Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Dobbs. They will terminate their tour of the continent by attending Rotary International's convention in Lucerne, Switzerland. Their plans are to return in June to the States on the Queen Mary.

Mrs. Ivy was elected to keep the scrapbook for the new club and the retiring president, Mrs. John O. Mitchell, is the new parliamentarian.

FORMER ATLANTAN returning today for a visit is Mrs. Ethel Everhart Greene of Port Washington, N.Y. She will divide her week's stay between Mrs. P. H. Winter of Avery drive and her uncle and aunt, the Lawrence Everharts of Decatur.

MRS. JOHN J. EAGAN has a full week in store next week, with her daughter, Mrs. Wistar E. Goodhue of South Hadley, Mass., and the latter's children, John, Katherine and Susan, flying in Sunday to participate in the festivities too.

On Monday Mrs. Eagan, her brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Brown, and the Goodhues will drive to Birmingham to attend a memorial service for Mr. Eagan.

On Wednesday, Dr. and Mrs. Brown will be honor guests at open house at which they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, with the Goodhues as guests. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Eagan of Spartanburg will be here for this event.

On Thursday Mrs. John J. Eagan, Mrs. Goodhue and her children plan to leave for Sea Island, where Mrs. Eagan will spend the next three months. Mr. Goodhue will fly down to join his family there and return home with them.

NEWLY ELECTED officers of Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Junior Guild are Mrs. Allan McDonough, president; Mrs. George Brodnax, first vice president; Miss Susan Coltrane, second vice president; Miss Dodie Black, third vice president; Mrs. F. B. Sheets Jr., treasurer; Mrs. William Bridges, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Lucy Bose, recording secretary.

ATLANTANS who met Mrs. James C. Graves of Saginaw, Mich., during her visit here three years ago are looking forward to her return on Monday, April 29.

She will again be the guest of Mrs. Samuel A. Johnson and Mrs. David E. Bagshaw at their home on Dellwood drive.

THE GEORGE ROWBOTHAMS are now at home in a new ranch-type house at 172 Blackland Dr. that they have christened "Llwyn," Welsh for grove. They moved from 136 W. Wesley Rd.

Easter Season Is a Tribute to Life

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

"The sun shouts" on Easter morning, say the folk people, for the rising sun reflects how the people feel about this joyous time.

Theologians, too, are cheerful when they realize that people have grasped what they consider the essence of Easter . . . out of death comes life.

Easter, like all Christian holidays, is an inseparable blend of the primitive and the civilized, secular and religious customs of all peoples and all times. To the common folk of many Western countries, the sun dances as it rises on this morning of the Resurrection, and people dance with it in some ceremonies.

QUIET WORSHIP

In our own more sophisticated world, the feeling about the sun is confined to quiet watching and worship on a hilltop in the early Easter morning.

But scholars believe that this custom is linked to the ancient ceremonies which set great store by the life-giving properties of the earth's fiery star . . . plants die and animals grow cold without sunlight.

And, as a closer link to Christ, one poet expressed the belief that "sun" sounds like "son" . . . people symbolically are watching the Son rise to heaven where Jesus states that the Son of Man and the Son of God the Father become one.

The fact that Easter comes in early spring and is well represented by the green and growing month of April is no accident —it is closely related to the ancient fertility rites of tribes all over the world.

Then the people danced and sacrificed to make sure that life was renewed. New fires were lighted at dawn for the assurance of health, life and the protection of crops. And in some lands fires, or at least candles, still are lighted on Easter morning.

The significance of Easter is illustrated in the length of its observance. Christmas stretches into the beginning ceremonies which lead up to the day of worship when Christ awed and thrilled his followers by returning to life. Students of religious customs describe the Easter and pre-Easter seasons as representing a whole gamut of human emotions.

The season of the Carnival begins on Twelfth Night, the sixth of January. The boisterous, gaudy celebrations which take place in many lands, including this country's Mardi Gras, find their roots in the Middle Ages. The Carnivals survive from the primitive ceremonies held to get rid of the dead (symbolized by the passing of winter) and to expel demons believed to be harmful to crops.

But on Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday when the Lenten season begins, the rich living ends. And the quiet season of Easter begins. Interpretive theologians describe Lent as a religiously solemn time of denial, a symbolic effort to die and to kill sin. And then, when Christ rises and lives again, they say the Lenten observers rejoice in new life in one way by eating heartily.

In some countries, a folk custom called Schmeckostern (Easter smacks) by the Germans still is observed. Using sprouting tree branches, on Easter Monday the men "smack" the women and on Easter Tuesday the women strike the men. Green branches are used in the belief that the young life of the twig is transferred to the human for good luck.

THE WORD EASTER

The word Easter itself is derived from the German goddess Ostara who was escorted by a rabbit. But the tradition of the Easter rabbit who brings the eggs dates back to ancient Egyptian times when the custom was used as another symbol of fertility.

The word "love" is found many times in the Easter story of the New Testament, and preachers have stressed that only when a person figuratively loses himself, as Christ did, will he find the love of his real inner self.

And in this long observance that displays so many varieties of custom and emotional tone, some interpreters believe that Jesus and the 12 disciples represent the many facets of mankind . . . there is the doubting Thomas, the Peter who gives word allegiance but denies Christ three times, the betraying Judas, the wonderful Jesus.

Poet Charles Hanson Towne summed up his feelings about Jesus at Eastertime in this way:

"Thou art the whole of life that quickens in the sod."

Letter of Praise From Eisenhower Got Newspaper Job for British Girl

By AGNES GAINES

A letter from President Eisenhower, who was then Gen. Eisenhower, helped a girl in Dublin, Ireland, get her first job in journalism.

Miss Muriel Bowen, who was in Atlanta recently to speak to the English-Speaking Union, began her career on a Dublin newspaper when she was 18.

It was just before the invasion of France and Gen. Eisenhower was a war hero. Miss Bowen had written him for an autograph, telling him how much she admired him and of her journalistic ambitions. She included a description of the picturesque town in which she lived.

"SHOULD BE A JOURNALIST"

In his reply, Gen. Eisenhower praised her descriptive ability and said, "If you can write like that, you should be a journalist." She showed the letter to the editor. It convinced him and she got the job.

Later she went to London to work for the Beaverbrook newspapers, the Evening Standard and Daily Express.

She is on leave of absence now, visiting the United States to study labor problems concerning automation and U.S. methods of raising cattle.

She has been working as a feature writer for the Washington Post while she is in this country. She is on vacation in the South, and has visited 20 states so far in connection with her studies.

In London, the energetic young woman takes an active interest in politics, her first love. She is a member of the Conservative Party.

"STOOD" FOR COMMONS

"I stood—I think you say 'ran' over here—in the last election for a post in the House of Commons. It was in the London docks district where it is four to one against Conservatives," she said. She set a record in this Labor stronghold by breaking down the majority, although she lost the election. She hopes to get another district for the next election and feels confident that she will be elected.

She observed that women are generally more active in politics in England than they are in the United States. Twenty-five per cent of the local governments are headed by women, she stated, and in the Conservative Party there are 10 women volunteers to one man for committee work. And, she pointed out, there is a woman on the throne.

The first thing she asked to see when she came to Atlanta was the Coca-Cola plant.

"Everyone in London knows about Cokes and no one would forgive me if I came to Atlanta without seeing the plant," she laughed. She also toured the residential sections of the city, taking films to show friends back in London.

SOUTH "VERY DIFFERENT"

The 29-year-old writer found the South very different from the North. "In the South, people seem to get more out of life," she mused. "They go slower and have more time to enjoy things. In the North people do one thing well—make money. But it takes up all their time and they don't have the time to enjoy it."

She said that she was enjoying her work immensely at "the center of the American political scene."

She spoke highly of members of the Georgia delegation in Washington, and Ambassador Walter F. George and his wife, Miss Lucy.

Miss Bowen believes that the strain in relations between her country and the United States will dissolve and the alliance will become stronger than ever. "The British have the habit of using trouble as a springboard to even greater heights," she commented.

The youthful writer has had two books published.

The author and journalist, who "never was good at school," began writing articles for a local paper when she was 11. Her parents didn't approve and told her it would be much better if she would spend her time learning to cook and sew.

"They didn't approve of my interest in politics, either," she recalled. "I was the only member of the family interested—I used to have to chase my parents out to vote."

Miss Bowen will go back to London in November.

One of the highlights of her Western tour, she said, was being made an honorary princess of the Kiowa tribe in Oklahoma.

A Rhyme a Day

"The proper 'foundation' for the well-dressed woman is more important than the dress or accessories."—Style advertisement.

To be a little kinder than . . . might be expected of a man . . . to be a little patient when . . . we have to deal with other men . . . to be a little more concerned . . . about the little we have learned . . . would be, as most of us admit . . . of everlasting benefit.

That is the way it ought "to be" . . . but none of us will live to see . . . the day when everyone is kind . . . nor, in a lifetime, can you find . . . a patient husband who will wait . . . in silence when his wife is late . . . and anything that he might say . . . will not affect her anyway

It seems to him, it should take less . . . than half the night for her to dress . . . and that's because he doesn't know . . . the struggles she must undergo . . . in getting "the foundation right" . . . and that's what takes her half the night.

All this is for the benefit . . . of husbands who just sit and sit . . . and hope and hope and wait and wait . . . (she will be ready when it's "straight").

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

YOUR STARS TODAY

Daily Guide—Today gives one a good chance to catch up on paper and mental chores. If you have been putting off correspondence or errands, or concentrated mental effort, go to it today because soon, the 25th of this month, such matters can become troublesome.

It may take much more time and effort to do the same jobs later, and the results can be far from satisfactory.

This can be especially true for the Taureans, since they have an eclipse in their sign as well as Mercury changing direction. Some unsettling of the earth's surface is possible at the end of the month and even next month, around the 20th of May.

Happy Birthday, Taurus! If you have been following the daily guide you know that there has been a concentration of aspects on the "Bulls."

You may have noticed that your relationships with others, especially if married, have been under some illusive misunderstanding.

It may have been difficult for you to adjust to others as they may not have been completely frank with you.

Circumstances can jolt you out of your set pattern now.

Basic changes are possible so keep flexible and alert.

Murder in Moultrie
Who Might Be Next?

Terror stalked Moultrie's streets in mid-May. Four brutal slayings within two days that week-end of 1954 rocked this community unused to violence. Two of the murders have been solved but the GBI is still working on the other two.

Murder in Moultrie begins a series of articles on unsolved murder cases in Georgia. The real-life whodun-its are written by Atlanta Constitution staff writer Keeler McCartney and will run Sundays only

Cupid Had To Come to Atlanta To 'Shoot' French Girl and Swiss

By YOLANDE GWIN

Miss Monique Marie of Paris, France, and Pierre Fries of Zurich, Switzerland, are going to be married in Paris this summer, probably in August.

They are going to live in the South of France, and already say they want a white house that reminds them of Georgia.

The couple will have a lot to tell the folks back home because both Monique and Pierre are in Georgia now.

CUPID HAD TO CHASE

Dan Cupid, that sly little matchmaker, had to chase them all across the Atlantic before aiming his bow and arrow.

Miss Marie is a student at LaGrange College on a scholarship sponsored by Rotary International, and Mr. Fries is taking his Masters degree in architecture at Georgia Tech on a scholarship provided by the YMCA.

Last fall when the Atlanta members of the Alliance Francaise gathered for one of their regular meetings (everybody speaks French, even the native Atlantans) a French play was presented. One of the actors was Mr. Fries. One of the visitors was Miss Marie. Another one was Dan Cupid. Operation Romance was completed.

The other afternoon Miss Marie and Mr. Fries announced their engagement to a group of the international set in Atlanta at a party given in their honor by Michael Hack, the Swiss consular agent, and Mrs. Hack at their home on St. Charles avenue.

U.N. GATHERING

It was like a local United Nations gathering, for there were men and women students there from just everywhere you could mention.

The Hacks had the Swiss flags interspersed with colorful flowers on one table, while on another table was the French flag arranged in the same way. Tiny flags of other nations fluttered on the buffet table.

And on one table was the couple's first wedding gift, a handsome salad bowl and tray, presented them by Pano Amastasto of Swissair Co.

The pretty brunette bride-elect went to the Sorbonne in Paris and is majoring in English here in Georgia.

"WE LOVE HER"

"We love her at school," said a trim little Chinese girl named Margaret Chang of Hong Kong, a classmate at LaGrange College. Miss Chang was wearing a cream-colored Oriental-style sheath. "She loves to study furniture periods and I know her home in Paris will have beautiful pieces. She is much fun and enters into all school activities."

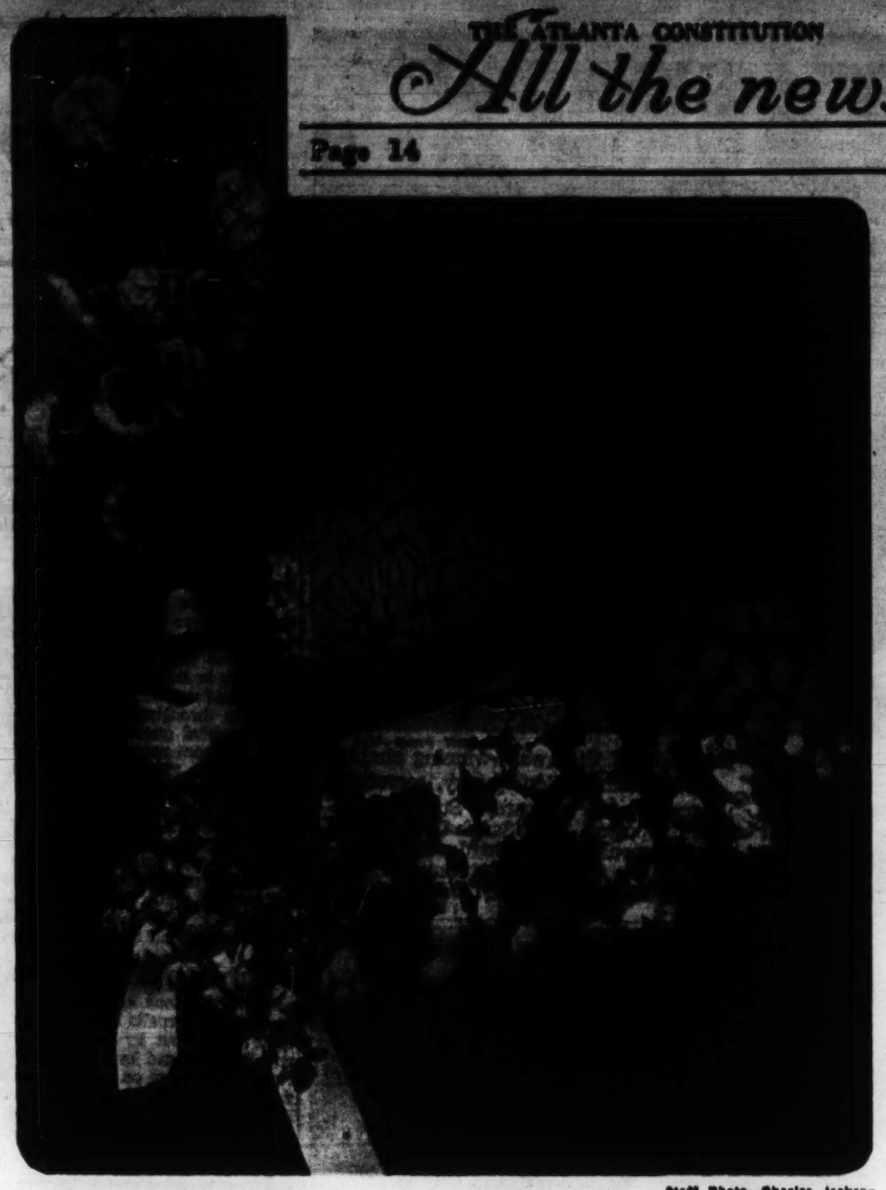

And here's what Dave Way of New Jersey, the bridegroom-elect's roommate at Tech, said:

"Pierre is a great tennis player, but he'd be the last one to tell you. And he likes to collect records, and our room is stacked with them. But I like 'em, too!"

WITH THREE DAYS' time and $1.75 worth of trimmings, Atlantan Roy Coker has created what hat designers spend months trying to fashion—an Easter bonnet that will be a parade stopper. Margaret Barineau poses in it, but Mary Whitworth, Mr. Coker's co-worker, will be the lucky (?) one to wear it in the Easter Parade. This will be her sixth Croker creation.

Dinklers Planning 3 Parties in One

By MARGARET McLEMORE

Fun for some 300 of the young social set takes place this afternoon when Mrs. Carling Dinkler Jr. gives a combination party for her three children, Derek, Carling III and Gayonne. Gayonne has just arrived home from Academy of Mount St. Vincent, Tuxedo Park, N.Y., to spend Easter vacation with her parents.

Bill Hornsby and Derek will be hosts for the Easter egg hunt for the children 9 and 10 years old, which begins at 4:30 today at the Valley road home of the Dinklers.

The treasure hunt for 13-year-old Carling III and Cy Hornsby starts at the same time and so does the treasure hunt for Gayonne and 100 of her high school friends.

The high school set is anticipating the treasure hunt. The final prize will be to lead the band, composed of Tech students, which will play dance music for the teen-agers. The dance terrace in the spacious back yard of the Dinklers was finished just in time for this event.

An outdoor buffet supper will be served. The Dinklers will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Marks Jr. of Augusta (Mrs. Marks is Mrs. Dinkler's sister) and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hornsby.

ATLANTANS ABOARD the Cristoforo Columbo which leaves today from New York for Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Dobbs. They will terminate their tour of the continent by attending Rotary International's convention in Lucerne, Switzerland. Their plans are to return in June to the States on the Queen Mary.

Mrs. Ivy was elected to keep the scrapbook for the new club and the retiring president, Mrs. John O. Mitchell, is the new parliamentarian.

FORMER ATLANTAN returning today for a visit is Mrs. Ethel Everhart Greene of Port Washington, N.Y. She will divide her week's stay between Mrs. P. H. Winter of Avery drive and her uncle and aunt, the Lawrence Everharts of Decatur.

MRS. JOHN J. EAGAN has a full week in store next week, with her daughter, Mrs. Wistar E. Goodhue of South Hadley, Mass., and the latter's children, John, Katherine and Susan, flying in Sunday to participate in the festivities too.

On Monday Mrs. Eagan, her brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Brown, and the Goodhues will drive to Birmingham to attend a memorial service for Mr. Eagan.

On Wednesday, Dr. and Mrs. Brown will be honor guests at open house at which they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, with the Goodhues as guests. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Eagan of Spartanburg will be here for this event.

On Thursday Mrs. John J. Eagan, Mrs. Goodhue and her children plan to leave for Sea Island, where Mrs. Eagan will spend the next three months. Mr. Goodhue will fly down to join his family there and return home with them.

NEWLY ELECTED officers of Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Junior Guild are Mrs. Allan McDonough, president; Mrs. George Brodnax, first vice president; Miss Susan Coltrane, second vice president; Miss Dodie Black, third vice president; Mrs. F. B. Sheets Jr., treasurer; Mrs. William Bridges, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Lucy Boze, recording secretary.

ATLANTANS who met Mrs. James C. Graves of Saginaw, Mich., during her visit here three years ago are looking forward to her return on Monday, April 29.

She will again be the guest of Mrs. Samuel A. Johnson and Mrs. David E. Bagshaw at their home on Dellwood drive.

THE GEORGE ROWBOTHAMS are now at home in a new ranch-type house at 172 Blackland Dr. that they have christened "Llwyn," Welsh for grove. They moved from 136 W. Wesley Rd.

Easter Season Is a Tribute to Life

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

"The sun shouts" on Easter morning, say the folk people, for the rising sun reflects how the people feel about this joyous time.

Theologians, too, are cheerful when they realize that people have grasped what they consider the essence of Easter . . . out of death comes life.

Easter, like all Christian holidays, is an inseparable blend of the primitive and the civilized, secular and religious customs of all peoples and all times. To the common folk of many Western countries, the sun dances as it rises on this morning of the Resurrection, and people dance with it in some ceremonies.

QUIET WORSHIP

In our own more sophisticated world, the feeling about the sun is confined to quiet watching and worship on a hilltop in the early Easter morning.

But scholars believe that this custom is linked to the ancient ceremonies which set great store by the life-giving properties of the earth's fiery star . . . plants die and animals grow cold without sunlight.

And, as a closer link to Christ, one poet expressed the belief that "sun" sounds like "son" . . . people symbolically are watching the Son rise to heaven where Jesus states that the Son of Man and the Son of God the Father become one.

The fact that Easter comes in early spring and is well represented by the green and growing month of April is no accident—it is closely related to the ancient fertility rites of tribes all over the world.

Then the people danced and sacrificed to make sure that life was renewed. New fires were lighted at dawn for the assurance of health, life and the protection of crops. And in some lands fires, or at least candles, still are lighted on Easter morning.

The significance of Easter is illustrated in the length of its observance. Christmas stretches into the beginning ceremonies which lead up to the day of worship when Christ awed and thrilled his followers by returning to life. Students of religious customs describe the Easter and pre-Easter seasons as representing a whole gamut of human emotions.

The season of the Carnival begins on Twelfth Night, the sixth of January. The boisterous, gaudy celebrations which take place in many lands, including this country's Mardi Gras, find their roots in the Middle Ages. The Carnivals survive from the primitive ceremonies held to get rid of the dead (symbolized by the passing of winter) and to expel demons believed to be harmful to crops.

But on Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday when the Lenten season begins, the rich living ends. And the quiet season of Easter begins. Interpretive theologians describe Lent as a religiously solemn time of denial, a symbolic effort to die and to kill sin. And then, when Christ rises and lives again, they say the Lenten observers rejoice in new life in one way by eating heartily.

In some countries, a folk custom called Schmeckostern (Easter smacks) by the Germans still is observed. Using sprouting tree branches, on Easter Monday the men "smack" the women and on Easter Tuesday the women strike the men. Green branches are used in the belief that the young life of the twig is transferred to the human for good luck.

THE WORD EASTER

The word Easter itself is derived from the German goddess Ostara who was escorted by a rabbit. But the tradition of the Easter rabbit who brings the eggs dates back to ancient Egyptian times when the custom was used as another symbol of fertility.

The word "love" is found many times in the Easter story of the New Testament, and preachers have stressed that only when a person figuratively loses himself, as Christ did, will he find the love of his real inner self.

And in this long observance that displays so many varieties of custom and emotional tone, some interpreters believe that Jesus and the 12 disciples represent the many facets of mankind . . . there is the doubting Thomas, the Peter who gives word allegiance but denies Christ three times, the betraying Judas, the wonderful Jesus.

Poet Charles Hanson Towne summed up his feelings about Jesus at Eastertime in this way:

"Thou art the whole of life that quickens in the sod."

Letter of Praise From Eisenhower Got Newspaper Job for British Girl

By AGNES GAINES

A letter from President Eisenhower, who was then Gen. Eisenhower, helped a girl in Dublin, Ireland, get her first job in journalism.

Miss Muriel Bowen, who was in Atlanta recently to speak to the English-Speaking Union, began her career on a Dublin newspaper when she was 18.

It was just before the invasion of France and Gen. Eisenhower was a war hero. Miss Bowen had written him for an autograph, telling him how much she admired him and of her journalistic ambitions. She included a description of the picturesque town in which she lived.

"SHOULD BE A JOURNALIST"

In his reply, Gen. Eisenhower praised her descriptive ability and said, "If you can write like that, you should be a journalist." She showed the letter to the editor. It convinced him and she got the job.

Later she went to London to work for the Beaverbrook newspapers, the Evening Standard and Daily Express.

She is on leave of absence now, visiting the United States to study labor problems concerning automation and U.S. methods of raising cattle.

She has been working as a feature writer for the Washington Post while she is in this country. She is on vacation in the South, and has visited 20 states so far in connection with her studies.

In London, the energetic young woman takes an active interest in politics, her first love. She is a member of the Conservative Party.

"STOOD" FOR COMMONS

"I stood—I think you say 'ran' over here—in the last election for a post in the House of Commons. It was in the London docks district where it is four to one against Conservatives," she said. She set a record in this Labor stronghold by breaking down the majority, although she lost the election. She hopes to get another district for the next election and feels confident that she will be elected.

She observed that women are generally more active in politics in England than they are in the United States. Twenty-five per cent of the local governments are headed by women, she stated, and in the Conservative Party there are 10 women volunteers to one man for committee work. And, she pointed out, there is a woman on the throne.

The first thing she asked to see when she came to Atlanta was the Coca-Cola plant.

"Everyone in London knows about Cokes and no one would forgive me if I came to Atlanta without seeing the plant," she laughed. She also toured the residential sections of the city, taking films to show friends back in London.

SOUTH "VERY DIFFERENT"

The 29-year-old writer found the South very different from the North. "In the South, people seem to get more out of life," she mused. "They go slower and have more time to enjoy things. In the North people do one thing well—make money. But it takes up all their time and they don't have the time to enjoy it."

She said that she was enjoying her work immensely at "the center of the American political scene."

She spoke highly of members of the Georgia delegation in Washington, and Ambassador Walter F. George and his wife, Miss Lucy.

Miss Bowen believes that the strain in relations between her country and the United States will dissolve and the alliance will become stronger than ever. "The British have the habit of using trouble as a springboard to even greater heights," she commented.

The youthful writer has had two books published.

The author and journalist, who "never was good at school," began writing articles for a local paper when she was 11. Her parents didn't approve and told her it would be much better if she would spend her time learning to cook and sew.

"They didn't approve of my interest in politics, either," she recalled. "I was the only member of the family interested—I used to have to chase my parents out to vote."

Miss Bowen will go back to London in November.

One of the highlights of her Western tour, she said, was being made an honorary princess of the Kiowa tribe in Oklahoma.

Daily Guide—Today gives one a good chance to catch up on paper and mental chores. If you have been putting off correspondence or errands, or concentrated mental effort, go to it today because soon, the 25th of this month, such matters can become troublesome.

It may take much more time and effort to do the same jobs later, and the results can be far from satisfactory.

This can be especially true for the Taureans, since they have an eclipse in their sign as well as Mercury changing direction. Some unsettling of the earth's surface is possible at the end of the month and even next month, around the 20th of May.

Happy Birthday, Taurus! If you have been following the daily guide you know that there has been a concentration of aspects on the "Bulls."

Shirley Flies To Try Artificial Arms

A 17-year-old Warner Robins girl, born armless, was on her way to West Orange, N.J., Friday with the flickering hope that she may be able to use artifical limbs.

Shirley Ann Chambers, a junior and "A" student at Warner Robins High School, will be examined by several of the nation's leading specialists today. The doctors are attending a clinic at Kessler's Institute of Rehabilitation in West Orange.

Shirley Ann has no muscles with which to attach conventional artificial arms. The specialists will determine whether it is possible to fit her with limbs which function on a suction cup method.

Two teachers at the school, Mrs. Joe Smith and Mrs. Lois Bailey, were instrumental in bringing about the examination.

Shirley Ann's mother works in the school cafeteria. Her father is employed in Macon.

The attractive teen-ager, who uses her toes for fingers in eatfielder Kenneth Duren, back startins shortly before noon by plane for New Jersey. She will return Sunday night.

Commerce Slaying

Gordon Howington, 45, Commerce cafe owner, was charged with murder Friday in the fatal shooting of a man he said refused to leave his cafe after an argument, according to the Jackson County sheriff's office. Donald Howell, 22, of Commerce was shot Thursday with a revolver during a scuffle at Howington's cafe. . . . The best young drivers in the state will meet at Columbus Saturday for the Georgia Jaycee Teen-Age Road-E-O. Some 36 youths from over the state will compete in the written and road tests to determine Georgia champion teen-age driver. No speed tests are included in the competition. . . . Charles North Jenkins Jr., 27, was sentenced to five years in prison Friday on charges of escaping from a U.S. marshal. U.S. District Court Judge W. A. Bootle handed down the sentence at Macon. Jenkins' 22-year-old wife, Marilyn, was sentenced to 18 and 12 months to be served concurrently. She was charged with aiding in the escape. Paul Danily Thompson, who made the escape with Jenkins while being transported from Macon to Baltimore, was given a four-year prison sentence.

Cycle Rider Killed

Rudolph McClure, 30, of Dalton was killed early Friday when the motorcycle he was riding went out of control just outside the city limits of Calhoun. Paul Stewman, 25, was reported in serious condition. Stewman also was riding the motorcycle, Gordon County Sheriff Hugh Don Davis said. . . . An Air Force sergeant in Formosa has confessed to a two-year-old series of robberies in Albany and has been sentenced to five to seven years imprisonment. Air Force officials identified him as T-Sgt. George L. Tingstrom, father of two children. . . . The University of Georgia's 156-year-old Demosthenian Literary Society will hold its annual banquet at Athens Wednesday. John Sammons Bell, Atlanta attorney and chairman of the state Democratic Executive Committee, will be the principal speaker. . . . Air Force authorities are returning S-Sgt. Edward E. Smith to Hunter Air Base at Savannah to face AWOL charges. Smith was the object of an intensive search after his car was found on the Eugene Talmadge Bridge at Savannah last week. Hunter's public information office said Smith left his car on the bridge and had created the belief that he had committed suicide. Smith was found in Louisiana. . . . A hearing to decide who should fill the office of Towns County school superintendent has been postponed until May 3. It was originally scheduled for Saturday. Unseld Garrett, Republican who received the larger number of votes in last November's election, has been challenged as county school chief by incumbent Ray Nicholson, Democrat. Judge John E. Frankum will hear the proceedings in Clarkesville.

SWP HOUSE PAINT
lasts longer...saves money

• It pays to be "choosy" when you select house paint. Whether you employ a painting contractor or not, the price difference between famous SWP House Paint and ordinary house paint means less than $5.00 for the average house job. This slight difference pays for years of extra wear . . . one of the wisest economies you can make!

• Continuous research has insured constant improvement and top-quality performance of SWP. You'll be money ahead when you discover there is a difference in house paints!

7 PCT. SALES GAIN EXPECTED

Late Shoppers Swarm In For Easter Finery Here

Throngs of last-minute shoppers flooded most Atlanta retail establishments Friday with apparel for the traditional "Easter Parade" the center of attention.

A spot check of five major stores indicated the majority of merchants are expecting sales for the week to run at least 7 per cent higher than for the corresponding 1956 period.

Fastest moving items included fashion accessories, millinery, dresses and coats. Men, following a national trend reported by Dun & Bradstreet, apparently limited their Easter spending pretty much to ties, suits and sports shirts.

MEDIUM PRICE APPEAL

E. H. Etling, treasurer of Rich's, Inc., reported "exceptionally good" crowds Friday with the bulk of the buying aimed at medium-priced ready-to-wear and children's clothing.

George Cotton, merchandising manager for J. P. Allen Co., reported good business through Thursday but a "slowdown" Friday afternoon. Although Allen's sales for the week will exceed those of the same week last year, Cotton predicts Saturday will be "a little slow."

"The day before Easter is always like the day before Christmas," Cotton explained.

Furniture stores and TV and major appliance departments of other establishments reported normal pre-Easter declines.

'VERY GOOD CROWDS'

J. W. McCoach, manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s huge Ponce de Leon avenue store, reported brisk sales and very good crowds Friday. "Sales will be a little better than last year," he said.

Dun & Bradstreet's nationwide survey reported that Easter shoppers crowded into stores during the week ended April 17 despite bad weather in many areas. Sales of building materials, major appliances and TV sets, however, were "substantially lower" despite a general over-all sales rise from 5 to 9 per cent compared to the corresponding after-Easter week a year ago.

Department store sales in eight cities reporting to the Sixth Federal Reserve District ran an average of 20 per cent above the corresponding 1956 figure for the week ended April 13. All eight reported "sizeable" increases," with Atlanta and Nashville leading with a 28 per cent rise.

Delegate Work and Gain Promotion, Bosses Told

By BOB WILLIMON

The head man of Georgia's largest single industrial operation had a word here Friday as to how bosses themselves can get promoted.

"Delegate your work properly," advised A. Carl Kotchian, vice president of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and general manager of its sprawling Georgia division. "It's the most effective way for the boss to gain promotion for himself."

A. Carl Kotchian

Addressing more than 100 persons attending the 11th annual Atlanta Personnel Conference sponsored by Georgia State College, Kotchian said: "Only by such delegation does a man train his associates so that he himself is available for promotion to another job when the opportunity presents itself.

NEVER KNOW

"A man who worries about his own job to the point he is afraid to give recognition to the accomplishments of those who work for him probably will never be promoted himself—his bosses will never know there is a man capable of taking his place," Kotchian continued.

Urging job rotation plans as means for developing men for higher jobs and improving efficiency, the official described the development and broadening of employes as "one of the greatest satisfactions for any good supervisor."

Kotchian emphasized the importance of telling employes why they are doing what they are doing. He cited Lockheed's Marietta plant as "one of the best examples of thousands of people working together to get tough jobs done."

200 TO 18,000

He noted that only 200 experienced aircraft people came here from California to begin operations now employing 18,000 persons.

Kelley McMahon, an Atlanta psychological consultant to management, told the conference that nowadays the company that gets ahead is the one which develops a "hard-hitting, progressive and unified management team."

The two-day meet, which concluded Friday, was co-sponsored by the Atlanta Personnel Club, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the National Council of Industrial Management Club.

Car Output Reduced by The Holiday

DETROIT, April 19 (AP)—General Motors Corp. built its millionth passenger car since Jan. 1 this week, but automobile industry production as a whole was off 2.7 per cent from last week and even further off the same 1956 week, according to Ward's Reports, Inc.

Ward's said factory shutdowns on Good Friday were the main cause for the production drop-off this week, and said the month's planned completion of 554,000 assemblies probably wouldn't be met, principally because of a strike at Chrysler Corp.'s Los Angeles plant.

The statistical agency reported 144,940 cars and trucks built this week, compared with 148,898 last week and 153,163 for the same 1956 week.

While GM passed its millionth car of 1957, Ward's reported Chevrolet advanced to 52 per cent of GM's car production from 49.1 in March and 47.3 in February.

Over-all the industry has turned out 2,169,922 cars in 1957, compared with 2,141,902 to the same date in 1956.

Ward's said that on the truck front Willys ended a two-week inventory shutdown today and that International Harvester was continuing a buildup after a recent changeover to new models.

Canadian passenger car production for the week was reported as 7,815, compared with 9,478 last week, and trucks as 1,527, against 1,937. Total Canadian production for 1957 totals 157,861 units, compared with 148,377 to the same date in 1956.

Last week's U.S. production was divided: 121,465 cars; 23,534 trucks. In the same 1956 week it was: 126,194 and 22,761. Of the year's toal production of 2,516,421 units, 346,429 have been trucks.

To the same date last year cars totaled 2,141,902 and trucks 385,555, making over-all production 2,527,457.

A Single Body Shell For Nash, Hudson?

DETROIT, April 19 (AP)—Automobile industry sources heard today that American Motors is planning to use a single body shell for its Nash, Hudson and Rambler cars.

The report brought a "no comment" reaction from George Romney, president of American Motors. Romney has said American Motors has no plan to drop production of Nash and Hudson cars, although the company's major volume is in the Rambler line.

The practice of using a single body shell for several different lines of cars, a substantial production economy, is common practice in the automobile industry.

'58 Wheat Prop Is Cut 198 Million

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today proclaimed continuance of federal marketing quotas on wheat in 1958. He also cut the crop's price support value the equivalent of 198 million dollars or more.

Growers would be limited, as during the past four years, to the planting of 55 million acres free of penalties under legislation designed to hold down production in times of surpluses. The country has an extra year's supply, most of it in government surplus stocks.

The support rate for the 1958 crop—much of which will be seeded this fall—was set at a minimum of $1.78 a bushel compared with $2 for the 1956 and 1957 crops.

On the basis of a below average harvest of 850 million bushels—roughly the amount to be expected under present farm programs—the crop would have an aggregate support value of about $1,513,000,000 compared with $1,700,000,000 at the $2-a-bushel rate. Support rates greatly influence market prices.

This reduction in the wheat price floor follows lowering of supports this year for corn, cotton, oats, rye, barley, soybeans, sorghum grain and several other less important crops.

To become operative, the marketing quotas must be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum to be held June 30 in 36 designated commercial wheat producing states.

Georgia's 1958 allotment is 107,591 acres compared to 103,143 acres in 1957.

Design's Role In Industry Is Stressed

Good industrial design does not "face-lift" a product—it becomes an integral and content-revealing part of it.

That was the reminder here Friday of Walter Dorwin Teague, one of the nation's leading industrial designers. Teague, whose firm is responsible for the design and planning of the new Air Force Academy, addressed some 30 representatives of Atlanta area firms at the first Southeastern Industrial Design Conference at Georgia Tech.

Also taking part in the meeting were Charles K. Lovejoy, executive vice president of Scripto, Inc., and R. H. Koepf, manager of General Electric's Appearance Design Section at Bridgeport, Conn. The conference was sponsored by the Associated Industries of Georgia and Tech's Industrial Design Department.

TA&G Reports Record Income

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 19 (AP)—The Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia Railway Co. received a record net income of $238,984 last year, it was reported at the annual stockholders' meeting here yesterday.

Earlier, the board of directors voted a 50 cents a share dividend to be paid June 15 to stockholders of record May 27.

Don't Tread on Jordan, Israel Cautioned by U.S.

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

TEL AVIV, April 19—The United States cautioned Israel today against any precipitate action bearing on the touchy situation in neighboring Jordan.

Washington's views were conveyed by Ambassador Edward B. Lawson in a call upon Mrs. Golda Meir, the foreign minister.

There have been no signs here of plans for Israeli intervention in Jordan; the atmosphere was relaxed. However, remarks made last week by Mrs. Meir were regarded as veiled threats of military action if Jordan's Arab neighbors should interfere in the Hashemite kingdom.

The United States considers itself bound by the British-French-American declaration of 1950 to uphold the status quo in the Middle East on Israel's border.

HANDS-OFF POLICY

The Israelis have said they would keep hands off Jordan as long as the crisis there remains an internal affair. Premier David Ben-Gurion's government would like Jordan to survive, as a buffer between Israel and the more powerful Arab nations.

However, Israel maintained last October that the 1949 armistice pact with Jordan would be nullified if the Hashemite kingdom were occupied by another Arab state. The government maintained it would have the right to advance Israel's eastern border toward the Jordan River under those circumstances.

Statements made by President Eisenhower at his press conference on Wednesday were interpreted here as a retreat from American pronouncements supporting the Israelis' right to freedom of passage. One newspaper today called it "a betrayal."

DISPUTED REMARK

The remark that caused concern here referred to American shipping: "We have counseled both with (respect to) Suez and Aqaba that, of course, people be prudent; in other words, that they do not try to bull their way where they are forbidden to go."

The allusion to "forbidden waters" appeared to deviate from the President's earlier stand that the Gulf of Aqaba was "international."

The United States advice to Israel today was that emphasis should be put on the positive aspects of Eisenhower's statement: "We have not changed our policy with respect either to Aqaba or to Suez."

It was stressed that by harping upon an equivocal remark and spreading the idea that the United States was backing down from its support for free navigation, Israel might encourage the Arabs to interfere with Israeli-bound shipping.

Fiance Rages At Photog as Shelley 'Sshs'

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (UP)—Actor Anthony Franciosa, fiance of Shelley Winters, was jailed today after he kicked, screamed and jumped at a newspaper photographer.

"Please do not do this anymore, darling, please." Miss Winters pleaded.

She said Franciosa had a divorce "coming up today" in Reno. He and Miss Winters planned to marry as soon as possible after his divorce.

Franciosa, who has been a Broadway actor in hit plays, including "A Hatful of Rain", in which his fiancee was starred, flew into his rage as he and Miss Winters left court after an unsuccessful attempt to bid on an $86,000 Beverly Hills home.

Reporters had to pull Franciosa away from Herald-Express photographer Bill Walker and hold him until police threw the raging actor to the ground and snapped on handcuffs.

Miss Winters said they had been told there would be no publicity about their court appearance.

Dixie Getting 56 Pct. of Chemical Industry

The value of chemical industry plants in the South will total more than 56 per cent of the value of all such plants in the nation when plants now under construction or definitely planned are completed.

That's the report in the May issue of Manufacturers Record, published by Atlanta's Conway Publications.

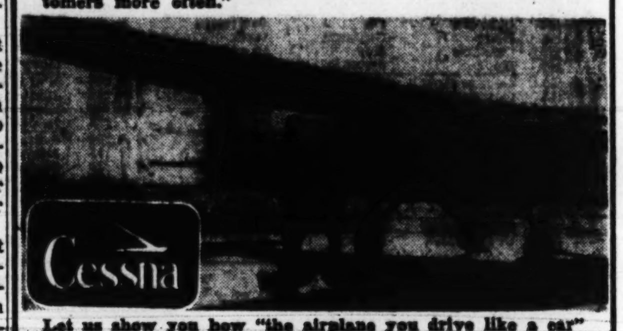

MR states that two Southern states—Texas and Louisiana—lead the nation in total investment. Georgia ranks eleventh.

Total expenditures for chemical plants planned, under construction and completed in 1956 in the eight-state South will reach $1,899,226,000 compared to a national total of $3,661,124,000.

2 Youths Seized Here In Gun-Death of Friend

Two teen-age youths have been arrested on suspicion of murder in connection with the fatal shooting Friday of a companion, police said.

Detectives M. A. Johnson and M. W. Blackwell said the victim, Eugene Edward Colbert, 20, of 705 Francis Ave., SE, was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady Hospital about 5:30 p.m.

The officers said Donald Major, 19, of a Mead street, SE, address, and Paul Tullis, 17, of a Parkway drive, NE, address, said Colbert came out of the bathroom at the Francis street residence, swinging the weapon.

The .25 caliber automatic accidentally discharged, officers were told. They said a bullet hole was found in the left temple of the victim.

The two companions said they had been drinking beer and playing with the weapon about an hour before the incident. Major told the detectivs he warned Colbert the automatic was loaded and might discharge. Colbert was carrying the weapon in his right hand, Major told officers.

Major's wife told detectives she was talking with her husband over the telephone when she heard a shot. She then said her husband told her, "They were shooting at him but it just went through his dungarees."

Both youths are being held on suspicion of murder pending further investigation.

10 Petitions Approved

Adversed were variations affecting sites on Peachtree street near Third street, NE, and on North Highland avenue and Williams Mill road, NE. Held were measures for tracts at Chappell road and Kennesaw drive, NW, and Jonesboro and Harper roads, SE. All other petitions were approved.

Top Polish Reds Warn of Unrest, Economic Pinch

WARSAW, Poland, April 19 (AP)—The Polish Communist leadership has warned that the nation's economic position is desperate and is being aggravated by labor unrest, informed sources reported today.

These warnings were delivered to the central committee of the ruling United Workers (Communist) party in speeches by First Secretary Wladyslaw Gomulka and chief editor Leon Kazman of the official party organ, Trybuna Ludu.

Gomulka laid part of the blame for labor unrest on the Polish press. He complained that the newspapers had gone too far and had depicted the lives of Western workers in too rosy colors.

.002 Pct. Solution

VIENNA, April 19 (AP)—Hungarian Communist newspapers campaigning against drunkenness report an average of 20 alcoholics daily admitted to Budapest hospitals. Budapest has a normal population of more than a million.

DEAR COUSIN HEPHZIBAH, Well, the Bond Election is over and now the politicking begins. I'm specially interested in Ward 7, Pos. 1. I went to a Rally Thursday where LANIER RANDALL exposed Jack Summers' ill-advised campaign promise to have a referendum on all "important issues" for the ridiculous thing it is. Summers would never define an "important issue" but, as LANIER RANDALL said, why have Aldermen if they aren't capable of deciding important issues? Besides, referendums are an abuse of the democratic process, since they are usually controlled by special interests with axes to grind. Answer this column. ALGERIDA.
